FBI, Virgin Islands Police Search . . .

Three Men Seized In Robbery Attempt

Christiansted, St. Croix, V.I. (UPI) — FBI agents and Virgin Islands police Thursday seized three men as suspects in the mass slaying of eight persons during a robbery attempt at a plush Rockefeller-owned golf club on St. Croix Wednesday.

One of the suspects was identified as David Joseph of the Virgin Islands. The others' names were not disclosed. Joseph was brought in handcuffed for questioning and police said he had a long criminal record.

The men were captured as FBI sharpshooters joined an estimated 100 policemen in an air-land search of the dense island rain forest for the gunmen.

St. Croix Island was sealed during the first hours after the massacre by suspension of all outgoing air traffic. Police said the precaution was taken to prevent the killers from hijacking a plane to escape. Service was restored early Thursday.

Four of the eight persons slain by the holdup men were tourists and the others Virgin Islanders. Seven other persons were wounded in the attack.

The slain tourists were two Eastern Air Lines employes and their spouses. They were identified as Charles and Joan Messinger and Richard and Ruth Griffin. Mrs. Messinger and Griffin were EAL employes.

Three of the Virgin Islanders slain were identified as Mrs. Ford Tarbert, John Gulliver and Nicholas Beale, all St. Croix residents and employes at the Fountain Valley Golf Club, jointly owned by David Rockefeller, owner of New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, and his brother Laurance.

FBI Chief Agent Clark Anderson said only Joseph was under arrest. The other two men were being held for questioning, he said.

A fourth man, caddy Justine Herman, a native of the Caribbean island of St. Lucia, was held as a material witness to the slayings, Anderson said.

Herman told the FBI he was on the links practicing Wednesday when he saw from five to seven masked men shooting at pointblank range at four persons sitting at a table. Herman was shot twice and slightly wounded by the attackers as he fled the scene, Anderson said.

A club spokesmon said Gulliver, 23, was a native of Leominster, Mass., and had moved here five months ago to become head greenskeeper.

A friend identified Mrs. Tarbert as a former model and employe of the club pro shop. She had been filling in this week for the vacationing manager of the shop, the friend said.

The attack by the masked, fatigue-clad killers came late Wednesday afternoon as golfers and guests lunched in the open air at the Fountain Valley golf course, about eight miles west of Christiansted on the northwest coast of St. Croix.

Lt. Gov. David Maas, a former FBI agent, said the gang members sprang from a hedge bordering the golf course and sprayed the dining area with automatic weapons fire.

Maas said seven persons fell dead instantly. Another died later at Charles Harwood Hospital. Witnesses said some of the victims were shot in the back.

Police said two of the seven persons treated at the hospital were in serious condition. They were identified as Alexi Rodney and Almeida Winter. Police gave no addresses for them.

Whatever The Name It Will Be Called ENT

The department of otorhinolaryngology at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine in Omaha will ask NU regents next week for permission to change its name.

But the new handle won't be any easier to say.

If the regents approve it, the department will become one devoted to otolaryngology and maxillo-facial surgery.

Not even the medical people themselves run the whole name past listeners, however. On the campus, it's been known as ENT—for ear, nose and throat.

Ag Dept. Consumer Duties Expansion Called 'Logical'

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

State Agriculture Director Glenn Kreuscher Thursday called a proposed expansion of his office's consumer-related duties "quite logical" in view of the department's current level of consumer activity.

When asked if his department could handle the additional consumer protection responsibilities, Kreuscher said yes, provided additional staff is made available.

"It will be very easy for our department to take on more consumer activities, if the Legislature wants it," he said.

The idea for a consumer affairs office came from Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan. Maresh's original proposal was to establish an office with the power to investigate and bring lawsuits on behalf of consumers under the Attorney General's office. However, that proposal has been since modified to put the office under the Department of Agriculture instead, since it already has a long list of consumer responsibilities.

Kreuscher pointed to Florida's equivalent of such an office—called the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services — as evidence that the two fields are closely-related and compatible.

The Agriculture Department currently follows many goods from the production stage through processing and ultimately to the retail level, he said.

"We're already one of the state's strongest consumer service departments," he said.

Areas involving consumer goods which the department currently controls are inspections of food, milk, grocery stores, weights and measures, hotels and motels, nurseries, livestock, grain, seeds and processing plants.

Until recently, the department was also responsible for meat inspection. However, this job was turned over to the federal government.

"When you're talking about food and fiber, you're talking about the Department of Agriculture," he said.

Among the unanswered questions is the scope of such an office. Kreuscher said thus far in his talks with senators no decision has been made on how far they want the department to go. Consequently, Kreuscher said Maresh has requested him to prepare some ideas on just what the proposal should cover.

Some consumer-related areas are already covered by the Insurance Department, the Real Estate Commission and the Health Department.

Gov. J. James Exon's feelings on the subject are not known. Thursday he was on a fishing trip in Canada, and Kreuscher said he has not discussed the matter with him.

Mishap Claims 3-Year-Old

A 3-year-old Lincoln boy was killed Thursday night when he was struck by a car on 8th between C and D, police reported.

Police said the boy was struck by a car driven by Janet Mason, 22, of 1028 So. 23rd, when he ran into the street from an alley.

Police said the boy was dead on arrival at Lincoln General Hospital.

Identification of the boy was withheld by police pending notification of relatives.

The boy's death was the sixth traffic fatality for Lincoln this year and the 13th for Lancaster county.

O'Brien Says Phone Tapped For Weeks Before Break-In

Washington (AP) —Lawrence F. O'Brien said Thursday his telephone in Democratic national headquarters was tapped for several weeks prior to the abortive Watergate break-in and the eavesdroppers made daily transcripts of his confidential talks with leading Democrats.

O'Brien, then national Democratic chairman and now chairman of Sen. George McGovern's presidential campaign, also said some of the Watergate break-in suspects had set out May 27 to bug McGovern's headquarters but failed.

His declarations to a news conference were the latest round in the steadily expanding controversy which began in the wee hours of June 17 when five men with eavesdropping equipment were arrested inside Democratic headquarters at the posh Watergate complex in Washington.

'Unimpeachable'

O'Brien said he had learned of the tapes, transcripts and unsuccessful attempt to bug McGovern headquarters on "unimpeachable authority."

He would not specify the source. But, in refusing to elaborate on some points, insisted "I am never going to say anything that isn't fully documented."

O'Brien said his attorneys had asked the Justice Department for any information it has concerning his private papers, documents and telephone conversations, but the department had refused.

The department has been investigating criminal aspects of the case while a federal grand jury has been taking testimony.

O'Brien has filed a $1 million civil suit against the five men arrested.

Footdragging Seen

O'Brien accused Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst of "the most appalling footdragging" in the case. But he said "the conspiracy of silence of President Nixon, John Mitchell and Richard Kleindienst will not deter us."

O'Brien also demanded that Mitchell, who quit as head of Nixon's re-election effort July 1, release reports of investigations which Mitchell said Nixon campaign people had made of the Watergate case.

And O'Brien also asked that the investigation report of White House staffer John Dean be made public.

The Democratic headquarters telephone of R. Spencer Oliver, liaison man with Democratic state chairmen, also was tapped, O'Brien said.

7th Story Job

He said monitors operated from the seventh floor of a motel across the street from the Watergate office building.

"There were transcripts of conversations, we know that," said O'Brien. "Who has them we don't know."

O'Brien said some of the Watergate suspects accompanied by other persons set out early May 27 to bug McGovern's pre-convention headquarters near the Capitol. But the attempt was abandoned at 3 a.m., he said, because of passersby in the area.

Terrorists Plan To Mail Bombs

. . . As Rosh Hashanah Presents

Bonn (AP) — West German Jews were warned Thursday that terrorists may try to kill them this weekend with bomb packages disguised as Jewish new year's gifts.

At the same time, police tightened security after a reported threat of fresh violence by Arab guerrillas unless West Germany releases the three Arabs who survived Tuesday's Olympics massacre that left 11 Israelis, five Arabs and one German policeman dead.

And Egypt threatened "decisive action" against West Germany after Bonn accused Cairo officials of being party responsible for the horror deaths in Munich.

Chancellor Willy Brandt's government told the 32,000 Jews in this country that it received a tip-off from an undisclosed foreign source that they may be the targets of mailed bombs this weekend during Rosh Hashanah.

Hostages Doomed

In Munich, Police Chief Manfred Schreiber said at a news conference the hostages had been "doomed men" regardless of German actions.

"Our only hope to save them was if the Arabs made a mistake," he said.

Schreiber said the Israeli government had repeatedly refused to yield to terrorist demands that 200 Arabs held in Israel be freed in exchange for the hostages.

He added that Tel Aviv expressed full confidence in the measures of the German police and only recommended that they try to stall for the maximum amount of time.

The games went on disconsolately, the five-ringed Olympic flag at half staff. Munichers watched in dazed near-silence, their hopes shattered of staging the "getmuetlich"—friendly, happy, carefree—Olympics.

Bodies Flown Home

In Jerusalem, 10 of the slain Israelis returned home in coffins draped in Star of David flags. The 11th victim, David Berger, was flown to his family's home in Cleveland, Ohio, for burial Friday.

A German Interior Ministry spokesman said the government warned national security authorities and the Central Council of Jews it has received word that terrorists plan mailing bombs to Jews in this country in packages and letters. He did not identify the terrorists.

The Black September Palestine commando group threatened in a radio broadcast to "deal Germany a heavy blow" if the three terrorists being held for their part in the massacre are not released.

The group, named for the September in 1970 when King Hussein crushed the guerrilla movement in Jordan, claimed one of its teams carried out the attack on the Israeli team.

"We will show the German imperialists, who dragged the honor of the great German people in the mud, what a heavy blow we can deal them if our comrades are not released and the bodies of our dead fighters are not returned to us," said a Black September statement broadcast over the Palestinian radio based in Cairo.

All Precautions Taken

Commenting on reports of new threats by Arab guerrillas, chief government spokesman Conrad Ahlers said "all imaginable and necessary" security precautions had been taken.

Police have guarded the Israeli Embassy in Bonn since the massacre of 26 people at Lod airport in Israel earlier this year.

West German Jews are concentrated in such large centers as Berlin, Hamburg, Cologne, Stuttgart, Frankfurt and Munich.

The Bonn government also announced that Chancellor Willy Brandt had received a telegram from Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel expressing appreciation for the "desperate attempt" to save the Israeli lives.

Discussion Of NU Budget Request, 5-Year Plan Head Regents' Agenda

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Discussion of the 1973-74 budget request and the five-year "toward excellence" plan head the agenda Monday for a formal meeting of the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.

The meeting is to begin at 1 p.m. in Room 202 of the Nebraska Union on the Lincoln campus.

The budget request must be in the hands of the State Department of Administrative Services on Sept. 15.

Likely to spark the most discussion will be an alternative budget, reflecting a $2 million cut from the administration proposal, that four regents have asked to see.

President D. B. Varner has proposed the university seek a 1973-74 all-funds increase of about $11.5 million, or 13.7%.

A third alternative will also be presented, showing the fiscal impact of adding three special items to the request. It would add another $570,000 to the request suggested by the administration.

In other matters, the board will review the low bids for construction of the new Home Economics Building on the Lincoln East Campus and consider several major personnel appointments.

At the Lincoln campuses the recommended appointments include:

—James A. Rawley, a faculty member since 1964, as acting chairman of the history department, while Chairman Philip Crowl takes a leave of absence to serve as chairman of the new department of history and strategy at the Naval War College in Newport, R.I.

—Kenneth R. Keller, now assistant director of public relations, as director of a new office of publications services and control, which will produce college and institutional bulletins.

—Vaden T. Miller, as director of the Nebraska Television Council for Nursing Educaton.

—Bert M. Evans, assistant professor of agricultural economics, as associate professor of economics.

—William D. Ahrens, now associate professor, and Eugene R. Merchant, assistant dean of dentistry, both to additional assignments as co-chairmen of restorative dentistry, replacing Vernon W. Rinne.

—Gerald W. Swihart, as acting chairman of civil engineering.

—E. Arthur Thompson, from program adviser to assistant director for programs in the Nebraska Union.

At the University of Nebraska at Omaha, the appointments include:

—Ronald Beer, as vice chancellor for educational and student services and associate professor of educational administration.

—Charles R. Hein, as director of university relations and assistant professor of journalism.

—Tim Sheehy, as executive assistant to the chancellor and assistant professor of educational administration.

—Rex Engebretson, from director of campus planning and development to assistant to the chancellor for planning.

—Prof. George T Harris, as acting dean of business administration.

Pet Turtles Said Cause Of Many Cases Of Salmonella

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

Pet turtles appear to be the cause of many cases of salmonella in young children according to a paper presented Thursday at a seminar on diseases common to animals and man.

Plague and swimmer's itch were also among the topics of reports given at the two-day conference held at the Nebraska Center For Continuing Education.

Over 70 people from across the country registered for the gathering which is the 14th annual Midwest Interprofessional Seminar on Diseases Common to animals and man.

Dr. Jack D. Poland of the center for disease control, public health service, Fort Collins, Colo., reported that plague is firmly entrenched as a natural infection of wild rodents in the western part of the United States. No cases of the disease have been reported east of Nebraska since 1925.

Humans contact the disease, he said, through dogs, cats and other carnivores who are infected by preying upon sick or dead rodents. The typical human victim of the disease is a young male who has been infected during the summer in a rural environment.

Dr. Poland commented on continuing investigations of wild carnivores as a means of detecting the geographic distribution of plague in nature. Such experiments, he explained, help to define the nature and degree of human hazard posed by natural plague.

In the paper on salmonella, which was written by Dr. Steven Lamm, Connecticut State Dept. of Health, and delivered by Dr. Russell Carter, it was projected that approximately 18% of the disease, about 300,000 cases annually nationwide, is attributable to turtles. From another angle, the disease will probably occur in 2% of families acquiring turtles, the report indicates.

To alleviate the disease-carriers the study proposes legislative regulations that would require turtles to be salmonella-free from their place of origin before they can be sold.

Swimmer's itch may be far more common in the Great Plains region than published data indicates related William Rapp, Jr., entomologist at the State Department of Healh.

Man is an accidental host for parasites of ducks ane other aquatic birds that carry the disease.

Rapp noted that as long as man swims in natural bodies of water where there are populations of snails and equatic birds, swimmer's itch will be a problem.

Woman's Pain Treated By Using Acupuncture

Houston (UPI) — Two doctors at the M.D. Anderson Cancer and Tumor Institute disclosed Thursday that they treated a patient with the ancient Chinese art of acupuncture with apparent success.

The doctors performed the treatment with an acupuncture kit twice last month on a 57-year-old woman who had an unexplained pain in the lower right leg and foot.

Relief of that pain could have reouired a serious surgical procedure known as cordotomy, which involves cutting fibers in the spinal column.

Acupuncture, as practiced by Chinese doctors for more than 3,500 years, involves inserting thin silver needles into one or more of about 360 different nerve sites on the body.

The doctors said they used acupuncture as a last resort before surgery and it apparently worked. If it had not, the surgery would have been performed. They said the treatment was strictly to relieve pain and not used as an anesthetic.

The coctors said the possibility of using acupuncture was suggested by two Chinese-American doctors on the Anderson staff. They sent for an acupuncture kit and learned how to use it.

The woman received the first treatment Aug. 16. After a four needle, 20-minute treatment, the woman not only stood on her right foot, but walked without severe pain for the first time in months.

She returned to the hospital a few days later and said the pain was back, but not as great as before. The team repeated the treatment Aug. 28.

Germans Defend Attempt To Rescue Hostages

(c) New York Times News Service

Munich — The West German police Thursday strongly defended their unsuccessful attempt to rescue nine Israeli olympic team hostages from Arab terrorists in Munich Tuesday night and asserted that the German sharpshooters assigned to the task were outnumbered.

Sportsmen Given State Funeral

Lydda, Israel — Ten of the slain members of Israel's Olympic delegation were brought back to Israel from Germany for burial, and were honored at a formal state funeral ceremony at Tel Aviv airport. It was an emotional and, at moments, even angry ceremony that typified the reaction in Israel to the attack by Arab terrorists in Munich. (More on Page 3.)

Israelis Enter Lebanon

Beirut — An Israeli armored patrol supported by helicopters struck across the Lebanese border in search of Palestinian commandos. A Lebanese spokesman said two Israeli forays in company strength took place near the village of Yaroun in a hilly zone of vegetable gardens and olive groves in southern Lebanon. The Israeli troops searched houses and set off an explosion before withdrawing two hours later, the spokesman said. (More on Page 3.)

Gunmen Sought

St. Croix, Virgin Islands — Authorities conducted the largest manhunt in the history of the Virgin Islands to find the gang of bandits who shot to death eight persons at Fountain Valley Golf Club on St. Croix. (More on Page 1.)

Hoffa's Hanoi Trip Canceled

Washington — James R. Hoffa, former president of the Teamsters Union, planned to leave Wednesday night for Hanoi in an attempt to bring about the release of some American prisoners of war, but he canceled the trip, at least temporarily, Thursday morning. Hoffa's lawyer and White House officials disagreed on whether the trip had the Nixon administration's approval. (More on Page 6.)

Haig Nominated

Washington — The Army moved Thursday to open its top posts to younger men by notifying 25 generals that they must resign short of their normal retirements. At the same time, President Nixon nominated a relatively junior two-star general, Alexander M. Haig Jr., to be vice chief of staff of the Army. The post is the second highest military post in the Army. (More on Page 2.)

Education Not Panacea

New York — The belief that better education would open the door to economic opportunity and narrow the income gaps between black and white, rich and poor and people in general is wrong, according to a three-year study of education and equality conducted by a Harvard University team. Anyone believing in education as an instrument of economic reform is in for a bitter disappointment, the study funds. (More on Page 13.)

S. Viets Suffer 100 Casualties

Saigon (AP) — Street battles raged in a northern district town Thursday and Communist-led sappers inflicted nearly 100 casualties on a South Vietnamese division headquarters in the Mekong Delta.

The stepped-up action on two widely separate fronts seemed to indicate another high point in Hanoi's 5½-month-old offensive.

Associated Press correspondent Richard Blystone reported from northern Quang Tin Province that an estimated five battalions of North Vietnamese infantrymen and main force Viet Cong, more than 1,000 men, launched tank-led assaults on the district town of Tien Phuoc, 40 miles south of Da Nang. It was the first enemy tanks that had been used in that area.

Street fighting was reported continuing late in the afternoon, with the district headquarters cut off and many of the town's 33,000 civilians trapped in the battle zone. The district chief was said to be wounded and one of his deputies killed.

"It's bad," one senior officer told Blystone.

He added that South Vietnamese positions were being hit by recoilless rifle and mortar fire at the rate of four rounds a minute, and not all government reinforcements, thrown into the battle had been able to link up.

Withering enemy fire was reported coming from Hill 211, the only high ground in the vicinity of the town, which had been captured by the enemy Wednesday. At nightfall the fate of Tien Phuoc was still in doubt. There was no word on casualties.

While the district town bore the brunt of the ground fighting on the northern front, North Vietnamese gunners zeroed in on a 50-mile stretch of coastal Highway 1 between Da Nang and southern Quang Tin Province. The vital north-south highway passes 12 miles east of Tien Phuoc.

Six rockets fell harmlessly into rice paddies outside the Da Nang air base. Fifteen mortar rounds hit Hoi An, the capital of Quang Nam Province, but inflicted no casualties. Another barrage killed six civilians and wounded 11 in Thang Binh district town and 12 rockets wounded four soldiers at the Chu Lai base camp.

In the Mekong Delta far to the south, a small group of Viet Cong sappers attacked the Vinh Nhi base camp near Highway 4 and field reports said 22 South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 77 wounded. Most of the casualties were inflicted by rocket-propelled grenades and satchel charges while the base defenders were pinned down by a 100-round mortar barrage.

One GI was killed in combat last week the lowest death toll in nine months but 26 were wounded and five were reported missing, largely as a result of aircraft crashes and enemy artillery barrages. One died of nonhostile causes. South Vietnamese casualties totalled 551 killed, 2,116 wounded. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong death toll was put at 2,744.

Maj. Gen. Alexander Haig

Kissinger Aide Named To Army Post

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon nominated Alexander M. Haig Jr. Thursday for a two-star promotion to full general and assigned him to be Army vice chief of staff.

Haig, 47, now a major general, has been chief deputy to Nixon's national security affairs adviser, Henry A. Kissinger.

Haig, is being jumped from a two-star to a four-star general, bypassing scores of other generals, to succeed Gen. Bruce Palmer Jr. as vice chief of staff.

Ziegler said the double promotion of Haig did not represent a "realignment" of the Army's role. He said it was simply a recognition of Haig's capabilities and means he is "highly qualified" for the post.

Haig served in Vietnam as command of the 1st Battalion, 26th Infantry and was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for battle action. He also served in the Korean War.

Porter Scorns Viet Cong In Bitter Attack At Talks

Paris (UPI) — U.S. peace negotiator William J. Porter scorned the Viet Cong as "the southern branch of Hanoi's war machine" in an unprecedented bitter attack at the Paris talks Thursday.

Porter used the deadlocked 158th session of the talks to belittle the "pretentiousness of the titles" used by the Viet Cong.

At the talks, the Viet Cong call themselves "the provisional revolutionary government of South Vietnam." The delegation leader, Madame Nguyen Thi Bing, uses the title "foreign minister" and insists she and the other Viet Cong are not Communists.

Porter said the Viet Cong was neither provisional nor revolutionary. He said it was "only the latest embodiment of a conspiracy beginning with the Indochinese Communist party 40 years ago."

"No one ever elected it into the offices it doesn't fulfill, it administers nothing, and the only programs it carries out are mobilization and combat under external orders," Porter said.

"It would simplify matters here were you to abandon ridiculous pretenses and accept the fact that the world perceives the Viet Cong as the southern branch of Hanoi's war machine — for it is nothing more than that," Porter said.

The Viet Cong delegation reacted sharply to Porter's cutting attack and to his charges that their military and political efforts had failed.

South Korea Plans S. Viet Troop Pullout

The New York Times

Seoul, South Korea — A highly placed government source disclosed Thursday that South Korea had decided to withdraw all of its 37,000 troops remaining in South Vietnam beginning in December.

The source, a responsible foreign ministry official who requested not to be identified, told newsmen that the Seoul government officially notified the Saigon government of its decision Wednesday through its ambassador to South Vietnam.

He said that the governments of South Vietnam and the United States had been fully consulted on the Korean pullout plan before the final decision.

The source said that it would require about six months to complete the withdrawal of two army divisions and supporting units. This meant that all South Korean troops would be brought home before next June.

Nixon Promises Not To Increase Federal Taxes

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon made a firm promise Thursday that if he is re-elected he will not increase federal taxes during his second term.

The President's pledge was transmitted to newsmen by John D. Ehrlichman, his chief adviser on domestic affairs. At the same time, Ehrlichman said Nixon has set as his goal relieving homeowners of approximately half of their current property taxes by substituting federal money for local funds raised for education purposes.

He estimated this would mean a grant to states and local communities of about $16 billion annually at current levels.

"The President will not ask for any higher federal taxes," Ehrlichman said. He said Nixon currently was considering several schemes for reforming the tax structure but none of them would result in higher federal taxes for any individuals.

"It is the President's firm belief that the federal government can be operated in all of its necessary functions without additional revenues," Ehrlichman said.

Ehrlichman made his remarks to clarify what he saw as some confusion about Nixon's tax policies. He coupled his explanation with an attack on George McGovern's proposals as irresponsible.

Ehrlichman said Nixon would only break the no-tax-increase pledge in the event of a national emergency of such proportions "That any fairminded individual would relieve us of our commitment."

But he said the 50% reduction in property taxes was a goal that the administration hoped to achieve in the near future. He indicated there may be a smaller reduction before the 50% goal is achieved.

McGovern Says Americans Shortchanged

Houston (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern said Thursday Americans were getting shortchanged both at the market and on the moon.

The Democratic presidential nominee exchanged gripes about high food prices with shoppers at a Dallas supermarket, toured the Manned Spaceflight Center outside Houston and then flew to Illinois for a visit to a Peoria tractor factory and a rally at Rockford.

"The Nixon inflation is ground into every pound of hamburger," McGovern said. "Meat prices have risen 20% since January 1969. The Nixon inflation is folded into every sack of flour. Food prices have risen 14% across the board since January 1969."

McGovern also called for a space program keyed to providing benefits on Earth. He said the manned space effort that put Americans on the moon was "too costly . . . and provides too few economic, social and scientific benefits."

"I believe in the kind of space effort which will yield a maximum return for science and the economy from every dollar spent," he said. "The future American space effort should focus on unmanned explorations and on the Earth resources experimentation package — a satellite designed to monitor natural resources, natural disasters, agricultural blight, forest fires and to improve arms control inspection capacity."

The senator told shoppers in a racially mixed, middle class neighborhood in Dallas that President Nixon had served them "a bad combination by keeping a lid on wages but not grocery prices."

McGovern asked W. F. Pardue, 86, whether he was able to pay the current food prices.

"Ooooh, man," said the old man. "They're outta sight. I can't take it. Something somewhere's got to give."

Bodies Of Dead Israelis Come Home For Burial

Jerusalem (AP) —The bodies of 10 Israeli Olympic sportsmen murdered in Munich came home Thursday for burial—yet another grim harvest of the Arab-Jewish war.

"Jews, demonstrate. Do something, or they'll kill us all, one by one," cried the brother of slain weightlifter Yosef Romano, clutching at the dead man's coffin.

"Vengeance," screamed a poster clutched by an Israeli schoolboy at Lod airport, where the bodies were brought in an Israeli airliner along with the sportsmen who survived the Palestinian kidnap attack at the Munich Olympics.

Hundreds of relatives clustered around the coffins, mounted on Army wagons. They wept, screamed shook their fists, fainted.

An old woman slumped over the arm of a pretty girl soldier and sobbed: "My boy, my little boy."

The 10 caskets were taken from the El Al jetliner and placed on 10 brown army command cars. Six soldiers of the army's rabbinical branch flanked each casket.

The coffins vanished under heaps of flowers and wreaths.

The command cars, headlights on, rumbled slowly across the tarmac to a quadrangle of police barriers. Waiting inside were Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, President Zalman Shazar, Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon and most of Israel's senior officials and diplomats.

Prime Minister Golda Meir, who was to have attended also, was absent. Her sister, Shama Kreingold, 83, died earlier in the day.

The ceremony took place in 83-degree heat at the same spot where the bodies of 16 Puerto Ricans were loaded into a plane three months ago. They were the victims of another terrorist attack, that time at Lod Airport itself.

"God full of mercy, who dwells upon high, find a good resting place for . . ." chanted a military cantor, then reciting the names of the 10 dead men. An 11th, David Berger of Cleveland, Ohio, was flown to the United States for burial. He had immigrated here 18 months ago and was a weightlifter.

As if to remind Israelis that the war did not end with the Munich horror, an Israeli soldier and a Palestine guerrilla died in a clash on the Lebanese border, the military announced.

Lebanon, headquarters for several Arab guerrilla groups, may suffer Israeli reprisals because of the Olympic affair. Hours after the skirmish, an Israeli force entered Lebanon and searched the area from which the guerrillas came.

Warning Repeated

Allon, taking Mrs. Meir's place at the memorial ceremony, repeated Israel's veiled warning that neighboring Arab states "who assist the terrorists . . . will be held responsible."

Allon noted that not all Arab states supported the guerrillas. He praised such countries as Jordan "that were brave enough to condemn the attack."

"The terrorists have murdered 11 Israeli sportsmen, and they have murdered the Olympic spirit," he declared. "These are not freedom fighters. These are not redeemers of a people, but an untouchable caste whose only purpose is genocide."

World governments, he continued, "must use all substantial measures, lest their lands become lawless roaming grounds of terror."

"They can stop them entering their countries, and uproot their bases."

On the jetliner that brought the bodies home were the grieving survivors of Israel's Olympic team and three West German mourners.

They were Dr. Hans Joachim Vogel, former mayor of Munich and a member of the Games organizing committee; Werner Nachmann, president of the Council of Jewish Communities in Germany, and Dr. Hans Lamm, leader of the Jewish community in Munich.

"Israel should continue in the Olympic Games to show the terrorists they cannot break our spirit," said D. Shaul Landani, Israel's Olympic walker, as he watched the bodies being taken from the airport.

"How could you let our best sportsmen die? said a placard hoisted by members of a boxing club near the memorial ceremony.

An Israeli flag fluttered at half staff during the airport ceremony.

The country was in the second day of a week-long national mourning period. The state radio played dirge music. Many entertainment events were canceled.

The short ceremony was conducted by Brig. Gen. Abraham Piron, chief military chaplain, who recited the ancient Jewish prayer for the dead, Kaddish. It ended: "He who maketh peace in His high domain, He will bring peace upon us and upon all the house of Israel. Amen."

The command cars then drove slowly away from the airport, followed by hundreds of cars, and headed to six different cemeteries throughout the country.

MOURNERS . . . of Israeli dead follow caskets from Lod Airport.

Egypt Says It's West Germany's Fault

Cairo (AP) —The Egyptian government said Thursday West Germany was at fault in the Munich massacre and that the Bonn government must bear full responsibility.

Egypt had nothing to do with Tuesday's shooting in which 17 men died, a government spokesman told a news conference. It was Egypt's first official reaction to the massacre.

The spokesman noted reports saying Egypt refused to help in Chancellor Willy Brandt's efforts to seek the release of nine Israeli hostages held by Arab terrorists at Olympic Village.

"The commandos and the Israeli hostages were killed in a German ambush, by German bullets and in a U.S. base in Germany," he said.

German Ambassador Hans Georg Steltzer was summoned to the Foreign Office for clarifications pending possible "decisive action," the spokesman said.

Steltzer said he was surprised at the Egyptian threat of action. He met with Foreign Minister Murad Ghaleb before the news conference.

Lebanon Entered By Israeli Troops

Tel Aviv (AP) —Israeli troops entered Lebanon on Thursday in search of marauders after clashes in which two Arabs and an Israeli were killed.

A military spokesman said all troops returned safely about eight hours later. He did not say whether there had been any fighting in Lebanon.

The Palestinian news agency Wafa reported in Beirut that Israel was massing troops and tanks along the borders of Lebanon and Syria in an "unprecedented buildup."

The Israeli patrol struck across the border following two clashes near the Israeli settlement of Baram.

In the first incident, on Wednesday, an Arab and an Israeli soldier were killed, the spokesman said.

A patrol searching the area Thursday killed a second guerrilla, then crossed the border in pursuit of other raiders, chasing them to the Lebanese village of Yaroun, he said.

The spokesman did not mention the massacre in Munich, for which Israeli newspaper editorials have urged swift retaliation.

The Palestinian agency reported several Israeli tank columns took up positions near Lebanon and Syria while helicopters landed troops throughout the day.

"Enemy heavy artillery batteries also are moving up," the agency's correspondent in south Lebanon said.

"The unprecedented size and strength of the buildup leaves little doubt that Israel plans to launch a large-scale attack on Lebanon and Syria to avenge the commando attack on the Israeli sportsmen in Munich," the agency added.

The agency said Israeli planes were making hourly reconnaissance flights over south Lebanon.

Rosh Hashanah Marks Beginning Of Period Of Reverence For Jews

World News

New York (AP) — "Chet," the Hebrew word for "sin," had its origins in ancient archery. It means "missing the mark" in a person's ways of life. It's a common occurrence.

But biblical faith teaches that the lively conscience hurts when it happens, and God forgives the repentant.

This is the ever renewing message of the Jewish high holy days, the 10 "days of reverence" beginning Friday evening with the coming of Rosh Hashanah, the start of a spiritual "New Year."

The blowing of the ram's horn, the shofar, sounds the rousing call to conscience at synagogue services Saturday morning, and signals the prayers of thanks to God for giving humans the ability to know right from wrong.

Light To The Soul

"Praise be thou, O Lord our God, King of the universe, who has sanctified us by Thy commandments," the people pray. "Thy words bring life and light to the soul."

The occasion opens an extended period of personal stock-taking, of individual reassessment of life style, attitudes, values and relationship with others, and penitence for past failings.

"Our Father, our King," the congregation pray, "for the sin that we have sinned . . . bear with us, pardon us, forgive us . . . Cause us to return to Thee."

After the opening observance of Rosh Hashanah, including ceremonies both in homes and synagogues, comes the ensuing days of penitence culminating Sept. 18 on Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

It is a day of fasting, reminding believers of the distress caused others by negligence or unkindness, and a seeking of reconciliation with fellow men and with God.

"Wide open are the gates of Thy forgiveness to all who truly seek to be reconciled with Thee," the prayers read.

Several religious leaders urged special memorial services during the period for the slain members of the Israeli Olympic team. Rabbi Louis Bernstein, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, said:

"We must also offer prayers of atonement for all of mankind which must share the guilt for this dastardly crime by virtue of the casual manner by which it has accepted outrage after outrage against innocent civilians."

Rabbi Irving Lehrman, of Miami Beach, president of the Synagogue Council of America, representing all three wings of Judaism, urged strengthened dedication to the ideals of Judaism to lift it out of a modern slump.

"American Jews have for too long neglected the nurturing of those inner resources without which we cannot survive as a viable community," he said, in calling for "unrelenting struggle" to revitalize the faith.

"We have allowed an erosion of Jewish life . . . which must be stopped if there are to be future generations of informed, loyal American Jews on whom Israel and our brethren throughout the world will be able to depend."

Sidney I. Cole, of Chicago, chairman of the board of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, also called for unified, positive action to bring faith out of its present "limbo."

"Let's make this year a new battleground for living our faith through contemporary applications of our traditions and teachings," he said.

Philip E. Hoffman, president of the American Jewish Committee, urged intensified concern for the "oppressed in many lands," including those hampered from leaving the Soviet Union.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Are there some things in this world that are inevitable, that we should accept as part of life whether they are good or bad: There surely are some things, both in the works of nature and the works of man but sometimes we find things that fall into the gray area a little beyond inevitable.

Gov. J. J. Exon is concerned about highway deaths and this is one of those gray-area subjects. The governor is disturbed, and properly so, about the 13 deaths on Nebraska highways over the long Labor Day weekend.

"Unfortunately," he said, "we have learned to accept this and live with this in Nebraska. I just don't accept the argument that we can't do anything about this." The governor gave the experts in various areas of concern a week in which to come up with recommendations for a reversal of the highway carnage figures.

We admire the governor's determination but we wonder if he will be successful. If there is anything in the land that has had exhaustive study and attention, it is highway safety. The programs that have been tried to improve highway safety are endless but the results are always the same — no improvement.

We should not say "no improvement," perhaps, as there might be far more deaths on the roads than there are, were it not for the efforts made at safety, but the death toll continues to increase every year.

From our point of view, skepticism prevails, for the same reason advanced by State Motor Vehicles Director John L. Sullivan. While on the road this past weekend, Sullivan said, he saw instances of "tremendous stupidity — stupid, glaring, terrible driving errors."

Every time you take to the highways, you see it for yourself. Driving on the Interstate is getting to be as dangerous as driving on a two-lane highway, maybe even more so.

★

It was originally thought that because of the great breakthrough represented by the Interstate, it would be almost accident-proof. People wondered how anyone could have an accident on the Interstate. Now we know how easy it is.

The Interstate is no less of an engineering marvel than it has ever been but people are just as thoughtless as ever and they have flocked to the Interstate. The Interstate has its own built-in problems, just as does any highway.

It is built for speed and the slow drivers are a menace but they are there, just the same. They will pull out into the passing lane right in front of an oncoming vehicle and will stay in the passing lane for miles.

At interchanges, drivers will shift lanes without regard to the traffic around them. This writer escaped a serious accident going into Omaha this week only by inches when a panel truck driver decided to switch lanes at the last minute without even noticing this driver right beside him.

On all the highways, you see exactly what Sullivan talked about — total human error. There just is no way to get around this. If a person is going to be careless and thoughtless on the highway, how can you change him?

You can educate until you are blue in the face but it won't do any good. The thoughtless driver knows better in most cases but either doesn't care or doesn't think about what he is doing. What can you do about a wayward mind?

Speeding is another and different problem but our own guess is that speeding is not the major cause of accidents that some people make it out to be. But if you want to stop speeding, there is only one way to do it — more troopers patroling the highways.

We don't go along with Exon's idea of eliminating the warning ticket and giving every violator a full citation regardless of the nature of his offense. That may bring in more fines but it won't help stop speeding.

Speeders will slow down only if they know that a patrol car may be over every hill or sitting on the right-of-way of every curve. When they know for sure they will be caught, they will stop speeding and that means a lot more troopers, not just 10 or 15 more but maybe 40 or 50 more.

Renaissance Of Subways The Second Time Around

WASHINGTON — The world is experiencing its second great subway boom. The first, which took place around the turn of the century, led to construction of underground railway networks in London, Paris, Boston, New York, and other cities. Today, 19 cities on four continents are building new subways, and 23 existing systems are being extended. When all current projects are completed, total subway patronage around the world is expected to reach 12.5 billion fares a year.

Each subway that opens is automatically hailed as the most advanced to date. Such accolades have been bestowed on the relatively new Montreal and Mexico City networks, for instance. But San Francisco's Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) system, scheduled to begin operation Sept. 11, promises to evoke a record amount of praise.

A fully computerized control center will direct virtually all aspects of the BART operation. The computer at BART'S Oakland headquarters can direct up to 105 trains (traveling at speeds up to 80 m.p.h.) on a tight, free-flowing schedule and automatically prevent collisions. Instead of coins or tokens, the electronically activated turnstiles at BART stations will accept magnetically coded tickets.

And talk about creature comforts. Life reports: "Extra-wide tracks and ties that rest on rubber pads will provide the world's smoothest and quietest train ride. The 34 stations are gaily decorated with trees, plants and original works of art, and the futuristically designed BART cars sport wool carpeting and cantilevered seats."

Speed and economy are additional BART selling points. Transit officials estimate that a 30-mile trip from suburbia to downtown San Francisco will take 35 minutes by subway vs. 60 minutes by car during peak rush hours. The longest journey, 45 miles, will cost approximately $2.60 on a round-trip basis. An automobile commuter traveling the same distance would spend more than $4.50 for tolls, parking fees, and gasoline.

The Washington, D.C., subway system, now under construction, should rival BART in technological sophistication and comfort. Wolf Von Eckardt, the hard-to-please architecture critic of The Washington Post, was moved to rapture after viewing the partially completed Judiciary Square station: "You already get a sense, a thrilling sense, of . . . nobility and spaciousness," he wrote.

Planners of the new generation of subways obviously agree with Guy Jeanette, public relations director of the Montreal Urban Community Transit Commission, who says: "People must be invited to ride a subway, not condemned to do so." Fair enough, but how many auto-addicted commuters can be expected to accept the invitation?

BART reckons that it will pay its own way if it can attract only 11% of the persons who now drive to and from work. A public opinion survey taken last autumn indicated, however, that only 7% of the commuters living along BART routes would patronize the system. But 6% were undecided, and BART is counting on most of them to opt for rail travel.

Cost considerations may limit the future spread of subways. BART's final price tag will exceed $1.4 billion, nearly twice the original estimate. The Washington subway will cost at least $3 billion. Taxpayers in other cities could well decide that that is too much to pay for speed and comfort.

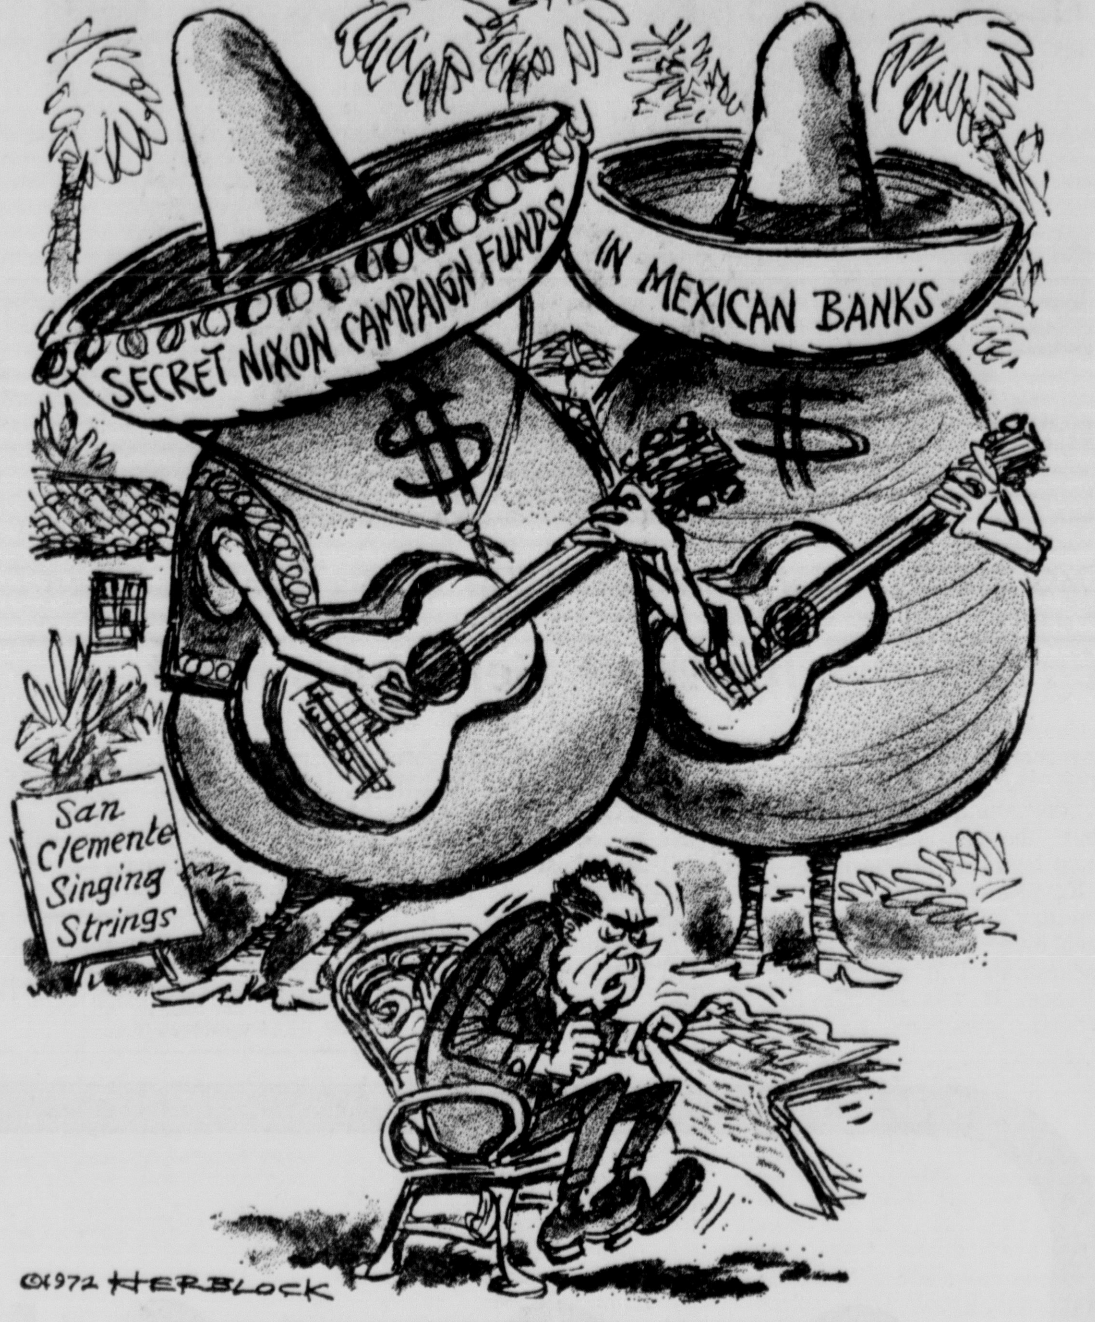
'Stop The Music!'



State Aid's Time Has Come

State aid to education, to a degree far more meaningful than it is today, now appears to be a program whose time has come. With both Governor J. J. Exon and State Senator Jerry Warner promising legislation for consideration of the 1973 Unicameral, something positive is most likely to come from law-makers.

Nebraska now provides state aid to local school districts to the tune of $35 million a year, constituting on the average about 16% of district expenditures. We would be very much surprised if the aid figure was anything less than doubled by the 1973 Legislature.

The amount of state aid will be one major consideration and the formula for giving it will be the other, with the latter probably developing the most controversy. Educational interests have told Warner's interim study committee that "the local school district must have the option to make a financial effort greater than the minimum program that the state support system provides."

Putting that into words you can understand, the educators are saying they want plenty of room in which to raise property taxes locally in addition to whatever state aid they get. That will be the meat of the argument.

Something along the lines of the aid formula proposed in 1972 should carry over into the 1973 proposals but with fewer loopholes. It may be possible to give a greater assurance of local property tax relief through state aid by tying that aid to the rate of annual increase in spending at the local level.

Thus, local districts that have a larger percentage of annual increase in total expenditures would receive a smaller percentage of state aid. The more a district was held down on local taxing, the higher percentage of its budget would come from state coffers.,

This would not only encourage local property tax frugality but would tend to give a better break to poorer districts that lack the big property tax base on which to base their levy. You can be sure that the only thing that will now stop a hike in state aid is a failure to come up with a meaningful guarantee of local property tax relief as a result of higher aid.

An Attractive Figure

Don't let the headline fool you — this will be no chauvenistic male discussion of femininity. The "attractive figure" is the price reportedly paid by Addressograph-Multigraph Corp. for its 227 acres northwest of Lincoln.

That figures out at about $1,326 an acre, a good buy for the corporation, it would seem. This tends to bear out one of the reports that surrounded the recently approved change to industrial zoning for this land to permit this development.

Backers of the development have said that it is mighty tough in Lincoln to put together that big a tract of land at a reasonable price. Most any realtor will tell you the same thing.

It is not unusual for much smaller tracts than this to go for a figure of $2,000 an acre, more or less. Of course, many things go into the price of land besides its size but size is an essential element of things from the point of view of an industry such as Addressograph-Multigraph.

Additionally, it would appear from all reports that this corporation is just the kind, from an ecological and other points of view, that Lincoln wants. Also, Lincoln seems to be destined for more industrial expansion, almost whether we want it or not.

The logical conclusion is that we have not seen the last of such things as the relatively large zoning change made for Addressograph-Multigraph. There is a clear lesson in all this.

The situation is one that ought to be carefully examined by the City Council and the City-County Planning Commission if we are to face the future intelligently. The city must have some input into that future if we are not to abdicate all development to industry itself, an abdication nobody should want.

Acts Of Terrorism Extremely Difficult To Prevent; Resolving Conflicts Behind Them Final Answer

NEW YORK — Most of the world is saddened and shocked by the reprehensible violence that erupted at the Olympic games, and calls are already being heard for something to be done about such unconscionable terrorism. But the question is what CAN be done.

Even those who most strongly condemn the Arabs who precipitated the incident can hardly be satisfied with the outcome apparently precipitated by the West German police in the airport shootout. Early reports at least raised the question whether the death of the hostages was worth the killing and apprehension of the terrorists — whether the best resolution of the problem was a violent showdown, rather than continuing every feasible effort to negotiate the hostages' release. This is the same question raised by the death of so many prisoners and hostages in a hail of New York State police gunfire at Attica — a tragedy the anniversary of which will fall just next week.

Even before the deaths of the Israeli hostages were announced, Charles W. Bray 3d, the State Department spokesman, quite properly demanded that nations who might have extended some aid to Palestinian guerrillas should stop doing so, in order that the commandos be treated as "an intolerable affront to human society." The trouble with that is that in some Arab countries, the guerrillas are seen as heros fighting for a holy cause; in many areas, they are actively feared; and in any case — aside from the military problem of stamping out the commandos — it is politically difficult for Arab governments to move against Arab guerrillas without calling into question their own commitment to the struggle against Israel.

The tough Israelis can take their own effective measures of reprisal and prevention, and often have, but for the long pull, that may well be counterproductive. However effective in the short run, military strikes into Lebanon, for example, may increase guerrillas' bitterness and fanaticism and tend to undermine the Israeli position as a law-abiding nation menaced by outlaws and brigands.

International sanctions and pressures against the guerrillas and the nations that harbor them might be devised, at least on paper. How hard it is to give such plans practical effect has just been demonstrated in Washington where a 17-nation conference has flatly rejected an American - Canadian proposal that signatory nations would halt air travel to nations refusing to punish or extradite airplane hijackers and to release hijacked crews, planes and passengers.

Given the experience of recent years, and the worldwide impact of hijackings, this proposal seems reasonable enough — deny asylum to the hijacker and where is he or she to go? But Britain and France and the Soviet Union apparently valued more highly the small amount of sovereignty they would have had to yield in agreeing to a supra-national process of sanctions. In addition, the British and French may have feared disruptions in their airline operations in the Middle East and Algeria — the latter country a goal of numerous hijackers.

Surely anything that could be devised to limit Arab guerrilla operations through international action would encounter as much or more difficulty — the more so because the Arab-Israeli controversy reverberates throughout world politics, Soviet-American relations in particular.

So it is a good deal easier to call for something to be done than to say what the something should be. Defensive measures, such as those President Nixon has pledged for Israelis traveling in America, are certainly necessary: West German security provisions at the Olympic Village appear in first reports to have been sketchy at best. But no adequate defenses can be erected that will always thwart fanatic terrorists, willing to die for their cause.

That is the heart of the matter. Whether it is the strange mixture of religious and political animosities in Ireland, or radical Americans bombing banks and university buildings to bring down "The System," or obscure tribes slaughtering one another for obscure (to outsiders) reasons in Africa, or Palestinians acting by any means to recover a homeland they see as stolen, profound religious, political and racial hates can stir men and women to the most unreasoning pitches of action and response.

When such people will not hesitate to die for their beliefs, however strange or distorted those beliefs may seem to others, they will seldom hesitate to take the most drastic and outrageous actions to defeat those who stand in the way. The cause justifies any and everything; ultimately the cause consumes common humanity.

That is why the only thing finally to be done to end Palestinian terrorism is to find some means of resolving the profound conflict that produces it. Which is to say that the end is hardly in sight.

Lively Meeting Ahead

Regents Face Budget Issues

The University of Nebraska Regents face a busy weekend ahead.

It's off to Los Angeles for the start of the 1972 Cornhusker football season on Saturday, and then back in Lincoln Sunday and Monday for the September board meeting.

Both events are likely to be lively, and the meeting might be just as entertaining as the game.

The biggest disagreement as the regents meet will no doubt be on the budget request, and there'll be lots of references to what's realistic and what's not and to what it will take to move the university up the scale toward academic excellence.

And if Regent Prokop wants to discuss his proposal for a 12-hour teaching rule for NU faculty members, that'll probably spark an interesting discussion, as well.

A month ago in this column, I suggested it appeared NU President D. B. Varner was going to plant himself solidly behind his recommendation for a healthy budget request and stick to it in the September meeting.

About a week ago, he said that's what he intended to do, even in the face of regental disagreement.

"My responsibility (as president) is to describe as accurately as I can the genuine minimal needs of the university to accomplish our objectives," he told me.

The objective Varner has often cited is to move NU to the top of the Big 8 academically in the decade of the '70s. That's not just Varner's goal, either. The regents have endorsed it, too, and thus Varner sees his job as recommending what he believes it will take to get the University there.

Last month, the board split 4-4 on a proposal to cut $2 million from the 1973-74 budget request. Varner argued against it, and he said that's what he'll be doing again early next week.

"It's a question of division of responsibility," he said. "My job is to present the appropriate budget, theirs (the regents') is to react."

"I do recognize that the prime role of the board is policy determination," he said. "There is no single item more related to policy than the budget."

Varner said he respected "the full and proper prerogative of the board to question and when appropriate to modify" a budget request.

And that is what the board may well do.

The discussion held last month to budget alternatives was one that in years past was held in informal discussions closed to the public.

"We did it open this time," noted Varner.

Thus, Nebraskans got a chance to view a month in advance of action by the board the budget request the administration was considring.

Varner said he believes it's realistic to seek such a budget boost this time around.

"Nebraska is prospering as a state," he said. "Some of the animosity has diminished."

And he said his contacts with people around the state have convinced him that "people do want to move this university to the top ranks."

And thus, he said, he will stick to his recommendation.

He will be supporting a different one, of course, if the regents change it and instruct Varner to take either a bigger or smaller budget request to the Legislature.

But this weekend, he'll be backing the one he brought forward last time, modified only slightly to reflect a regents' decision to change the tuition boost that Varner had sought.

Although discussion of the new regental bylaws, as drafted by a university governance commission, is not on the agenda this week, it's clear that when that item rolls around the regents will have another lively issue on their hands.

How the board as a whole might react to Prokop's 12-hour proposal is anybody's guess. How the faculty would react is clear. They'd oppose it.

Faculty members would argue that it would be impossible for a professor to teach 12 credit hours of classes, if that required different preparations for as many as four different courses, and still meet obligations to advise students and engage in public service work that's part of the university's responsibility to its public.

Taking such a position is different from saying there's no room for improvement among university faculty members.

In fact, the president of the faculty senate on the Lincoln campuses was quick to point out he's not opposed to increasing efficiency of the teaching effort.

But the indications are that imposing a 12-hour rule will not put the university on the road to significant improvement in teaching. That would probably take less hours, not more, in the classroom and fewer students per class.

At the same time, it would take meaningful moves in the direction of improving the teaching ability of faculty members, and weeding out those who are doing a poor job and are not likely to improve.

Such an effort might not be popular, but I'd guess it would do more to improve what happens in classrooms.

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will nave no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by the a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under writer's true name but may be submitted for publicaion under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Marked Person

Lincoln, Neb.

No parole, no pardon should be granted Caril Fugate. For those of us who live here in Lincoln and went through the terrible ordeal, it brings back memories of fear and goosebumps.

On the night that Charles Starkweather and Caril Fugate held the Wards in their home, we were moving from our apartment which was one block away. We drove in front of that Ward house many times that night, not knowing they were in there. On one trip to our house, I stayed in that big house by myself, crouched in a corner with a hand-gun. I din't know how to use it and it had no bullets, but I thought if they came to our house, at least I would have something to frighten them off with.

I remember when they brought Caril Fugate in and as far as pictures in the newspapers could show, there were sometimes little smiles on her face. When being interviewed, she had a sharpness in her voice and a smart-aleck attitude.

This incident she was involved in will be with her the rest of her life. People cannot and will not forget it. She's a marked person and I don't think she can or will adjust to life outside prison.

'By Their Deeds'

Blair, Neb.

In the best interests of good citizenship and the future of this great nation, now would be a fine time for those given to letting others make up their minds on politics and politicians to read some history and then to use their own best judgment before voting.

Read, if you will, the 1968 Republican platform and the pre-election promises of Richard Nixon. Then, just remember his almost complete reversal of position and his dramatic turn to the left. His espousal of "guaranteed income," of socialized health care, of unlimited deficit spending. His promises of taking the waste out of welfare, returning the government to the people and ending war.

"By their deeds ye shall know them!" Nixon has a record, a performance chart, if you are interested enough to look for it. It would make Senator McGovern's "reassessments of his reassessments" look tame by comparison. We know what Nixon said he would do and what he has done, not done, and to what extent he has deceived us.

We didn't think Harry Truman would be a good president! He was! We knew FDR was a radical, and thank God he was. Where would we be if he hadn't come down the pike when he did? We thought there was a "new" Nixon. There wasn't. It was the same old Nixon with two or three coats of momentarily transparent paint.

Mr. McGovern simply can't be as bad as now pictured, and we know that Mr. Nixon isn't as good as we are led to believe he is.

Time to forget rhetoric and remember deeds. High time for us to think and then to vote our own convictions and mind.

On The Lam

Salem, Ore.

There was a minister who said, "I know my name is written in the Lamb's Book of Life."

Next day he eloped with another man's wife.

Did the Lamb scratch his name or does it still remain?

You might my opinion share, and say that it was never there.

(This is true. It happened in a small town in Nebraska about 80 years ago. I was in church and heard the preacher say it. The woman was the Sunday school superintendent's wife. She left him with three small children. No one knew where they went.)

No End To Violence

Lincoln, Neb.

We live in a troubled world where there is so much of violence, atrocities, killings, hijackings, kidnappings. History hardly has a comparison for what we read about now, the abominable attacks by Arab terrorists in Munich, and the killing of sports participants in the Olympic games. Even most of the Arab countries condemn it.

And how about North Ireland? There the violence has lasted so long and innocent people perish in the guerrilla bombings. And there is no end to it to be seen.

Our country is blamed, too, as I read in the issue of Sept. 4 that the loss of funds is feared by the Provisionals, that is, they fear a loss of vital funds from U.S. sympathizers who were questioning the value of indiscriminate bombings. We remember some time ago of a terrorist leader who was not given permission by our government to enter this country to raise funds.

Jan Gauger Promises Campaign 'To Open Doors Of Government'

A campaign effort "to throw open the doors and windows of county government and let the winds of change blow through," was promised Thursday by Lancaster County Commissioner candidate Jan Gauger.

Speaking to some 160 persons attending a fund-raising luncheon on her behalf Thursday , Mrs. Gauger said the theme of her campaign is to "invite the public into county government: invite them to participate, to contribute their ideas, concerns and criticisms."

She said the rules of the game are to "play fair," "utilize public discussion," and to "work hard."

The Republican candidate for the post now held by William Grossman proposed what she termed "a short-term task force approach to county problems," which would involve as many people with different points of view as possible.

However, she said, appointment of such a task force would not be a "substitute" for decision making, adding that, if elected, she would not refer every decision to County Attorney Paul Douglas' office.

"I am not timid about making a decision," she said, "but I do want the best information I can get before I make a decision."

Underlining the potential for grass-roots participation in the task force fact-finding, problem-solving approach, Mrs. Gauger said she has found "hundreds of citizens willing to share their experiences, knowledge and expertise for short periods of time."

She told the group that she stands ready to give full time to the office of county commissioner if the office requires it.

However, she said she would vote for a reduction of the present salary paid county commissioners in the interest of economy and efficiency if the job can be handled "efficiently and responsively" as a part-time office.

Mrs. Gauger will face in November Democrat Jim Studnicka who defeated incumbent Grossman for the Democratic nomination in the primary.

Rental Housing Directory Declaratory Judgment Set

An attorney for the State Real Estate Commission said Thursday he will seek a declaratory judgment in Lancaster County District Court next week on whether Rental Housing Directory, Inc., of Lincoln is required by law to have a real estate broker's license.

The judgment is being requested strictly to determine whether the rental referral agency needs a license, Lincoln attorney Dick Williams said, and it will not involve a civil suit.

The question arose at a recent meeting of the State Real Estate Commission which authorized Director Paul Quinlan to institute legal action against the firm if County Atty. Paul Douglas had not by Sept. 1.

The vice-president of the Montana-based company disputed the commission's judgment and said his firm no more needs a real estate brokers license than a newspaper which advertises rentals.

NSEA Has Not Endorsed Any Presidential Candidate

The Nebraska State Education Association, which represents some 18,500 educators, has not endorsed any presidential candidate, NSEA Executive Secretary John Lynch said Thursday.

Nor has the NSEA's political action arm, the Political Action Committee for Education, made such an endorsement, Lynch said.

The announcement was made by Lynch because of confusion as to the NSEA's position, he said.

The national teachers union, the American Federation of Teachers, announced its endorsement of Sen. George McGovern several days ago. "We are in no way connected with or in support of this group," Lynch said.

Bids To Open For Building Indian Museum

Tahlequah, Okla. (AP) — Bids will be opened Sept. 18 by the Society for construction of a $580,000 museum.

The building will be at the Tsa-La- Gi complex, four miles south of Tahlequah. It will be located near the three remaining pillars of the old Cherokee Female Seminary.

Martin Hagerstrand, executive director of the historical society, said a number of old books and papers along with artifacts already have been contributed to the society.

Appeals Court In N.Y. Orders New Primary

New York (AP) — A state appeals court overturned on Thursday the Democratic primary in which veteran Rep. John Rooney defeated Allard Lowenstein, and ordered a new primary to be held Sept. 19.

In its decision, the Appellate Division of State Supreme court said it found no fraud in the primary, but that irregularities were numerous enough to make the outcome questionable.

Thone Reports Contributions Totaling $24,111

Rep. Charles Thone, reported to the secretary of state's office Thursday he has received contributions totaling $24,111 for his re-election campaign.

On the expenditure side of the report, Thone said $11,215 has been distributed. Of the total income, $12,625 was from the state Republican Party.

Democratic senatorial candidate Terry Carpenter also filed a report which said he has spent $14,528. Contributions, however, were listed at $6,866.

Candidate Says Pension System Needs Overhaul

Democratic congressional nominee Darrel Berg of Lincoln Thursday said the pension system needs to be overhauled to protect the pension rights of American workers.

"More than one-third of all workers who are participating in pension plans now will not get a nickel back when they retire," Berg said.

"Workers are losing their pension rights every day when their companies go bankrupt, merge with other companies or simply go out of business. In addition, many workers lose their pensions when they transfer jobs.

"As a result, only a fraction of the 30 million workers now covered by pension plans will ever receive any benefits."

In addition to pension reform, Berg said, Social Security benefits should be improved.

Vietnam Passport For Hoffa Revoked

Washington (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers Thursday revoked the passport validation that would have allowed former Teamsters Union President James Hoffa to travel to North Vietnam.

It was reported earlier that Hoffa had wanted to go abroad about effecting the release of American prisoners of war.

State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray said Rogers acted after he "satisfied himself there were irregularities, including irregularities in the procedures by which the validation had been approved."

Although Bray cited technical, procedural problems in the way the validation was issued, he also said Rogers "among other things does not believe private American citizens should be involved in negotiations with respect to the release of prisoners of war."

A newspaper report in the Detroit News said Hoffa had been invited by North Vietnamese trade unions to make the journey. But a North Vietnamese source in Paris said no invitation had been given.

The State Department initially said Hoffa had presented a letter addressed to Rogers saying he had been invited and that passport officials had issued Hoffa a passport and validation to travel to Hanoi.

Late in the afternoon Thursday, Bray called reporters into his office to announce the revocation of the travel validation, which does, however, not affect Hoffa's actual passport.

Bray said the original validation issued for Hoffa's attorney, William L. Taub, travel as well as that for his came from an unauthorized State Department employe.

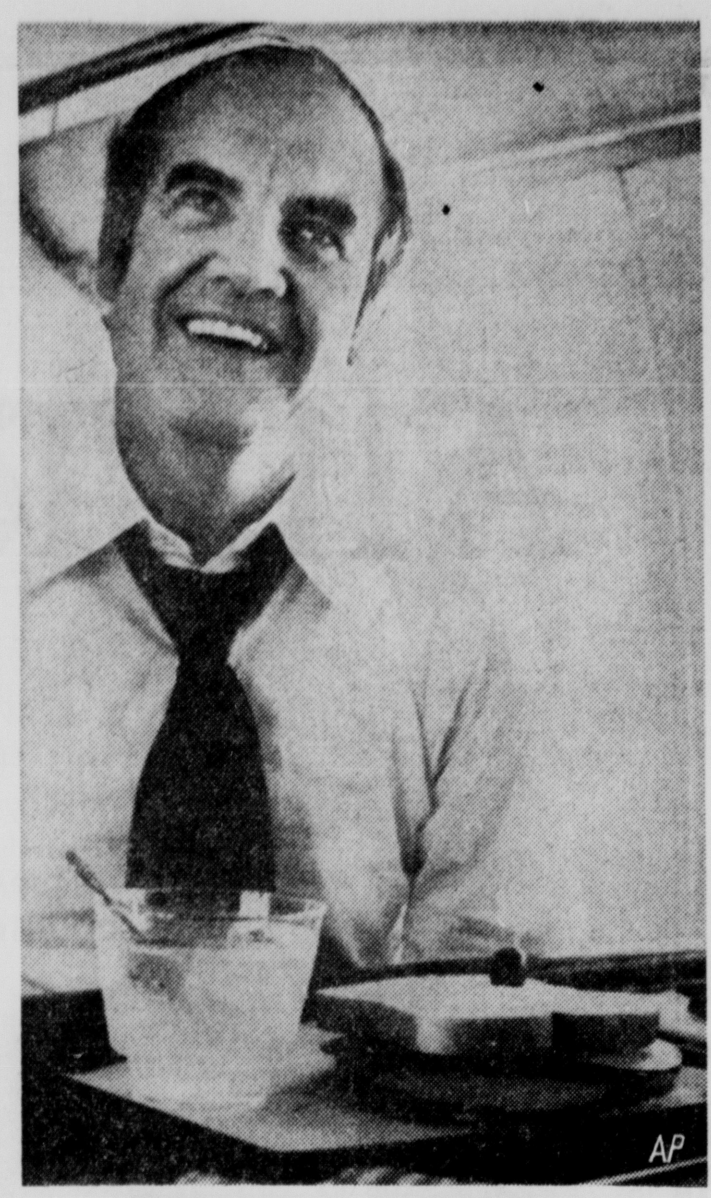
The spokesman would not disclose the employe's name, but said that this was one of the technical, procedural matters on which Rogers based his action.

Hoffa was released on parole last December after spending four years and nine months in a federal prison following his conviction on jury tampering and mail fraud charges.

The U.S. Parole Board approved his travel overseas for a 30-day period.

Maurice H. Sigler, board chairman, said Hoffa had applied to his probation officer in Detroit for permission to go abroad because, Sigler said, "he wanted to go over there about effecting the release of war prisoners."

A North Vietnamese source in Paris said the North Vietnamese trade unions denied that they had invited Hoffa. The source said the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris had received a cable saying Hoffa and two others would arrive Thursday. But, he said, they had not been invited to Hanoi and would not get visas.



EXECUTIVE LUNCHEON

Sen. George McGovern, Democratic candidate for president, has a laugh over the dry martini and plain bologna sandwich that was served to him by newsmen as they were flying from Dallas to Houston. All week McGovern has been complaining about business executives who are allowed to deduct from their income taxes the cost of lunches and accompanying rounds of martinis. Then telling his listeners, "but you can't deduct the cost of your bologna sandwich."

Soviet Grain Sale To Get Investigation

Washington (AP) — A congressional subcommittee plans to investigate how the Nixon administration handled business with the private grain trade in the multimillion-dollar U.S.-Soviet wheat deal.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz is expected to be called as lead-off witness next Thursday when a House Agriculture Committee subcommittee headed by Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., begins the latest in a series of probes prompted by disputes in the grain-sale case.

A separate investigation, expected to take several months, is under way by the General Accounting Office at the request of Rep. Pierre S. duPont, R-Del.

Recently Clarence Palmby and Clifford Pulvermacher, quit the Agriculture Department to work for firms involved with huge grain sales to the Russians. The Justice Department is studying possible improprieties by the two.

House Democratic leaders support a full-scale congressional investigation "to determine if there were any improprieties on the part of the government officials—or private firms — which participated in the negotiations" for the U.S.-Soviet grain deal, House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla. told reporters Thursday.

Asked if he meant possible conflict of interest Albert responded: "We're talking about whether somebody did something that was not proper — you can call that conflict of interest if you want."

Wheat prices soared sharply in late July and in August as it became apparent the Soviets would buy around 400 million bushels, one-fourth of the U.S. crop this year.

Kansas Flash Flood Drives 70 From Homes

Tonganoxie, Kan. (UPI) — A flash flood from a storm which dumped more than five inches of rain on this northeast Kansas community in a few hours early Thursday left 70 persons homeless.

Leavenworth County Undersheriff Dan Roberts said some refugees were able to return to their trailer park homes near Tonganoxie Creek "in a few hours."

The creek had roared from its banks in the predawn darkness, gushing across a trailer park almost before occupants realized what was happening.

"We took out 70 people, Roberts said, "including some who just waded to high ground. Some were brought out in boats, some in trucks — just anything we could get hold of. Most of it (the rescue work) was by the Tonganoxie Fire Department."

Roberts said 26 trailers and 21 cars were at least partly under water, which he estimated was about four feet deep.

Tougher Exhaust Controls Ordered

Washington (UPI) — The federal government Thursday ordered tougher exhaust emission standards for heavy duty truck and bus engines and approved new emmission controls for most 1973 Ford Motor Co. cars.

The new standards for trucks and buses, applying to both diesel and gasoline engines, will take effect with the 1974 model year. They cover heavy duty vehicles, defined as those which carry 12 or more passengers or which weigh 6,000 pounds or more.

Council To Watch Beef Costs

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration, saying retail beef prices must come down, ordered the Internal Revenue Service Thursday to keep a close watch on prices charged by about 100 of the nation's largest food chains.

In addition, the Cost of Living Council asked the Price Commission to consider tightening its regulations to insure that a decline in wholesale meat prices will also mean a prompt reduction in retail meat prices.

Donald Rumsfeld, council director, announced he has sent telegrams to the nation's largest food retailers, telling them that the spread between the wholesale price of beef and the retail price is 37 cents per pound, about 8.6 cents more than the gap per pound a year ago.

"There is no precedent for the current gap between wholesale beef price levels and the prices being charged by much of the retail food industry," Rumsfeld said.

'Reduce Retail'

Noting that farm and carcass beef prices are currently at a 10-month low, Rumsfeld told the retailers: "Retail beef prices must be reduced."

He said the IRS monitoring is being set up so the council "will be in a position to make the public aware of those firms which have reduced their prices." Only a few of them, "notably Fisher Foods, Jewel Tea, Lucky Stores, and Safeway," have complied with an earlier request to cut beef prices to reflect a declining wholesale situation, Rumsfeld said.

He also sent a memorandum to Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. saying that commission rules make it possible to select a high mark-up on beef during the 12 months of the fiscal year prior to the price freeze.

As a result, retailers are able to maintain artificially high beef prices longer than would otherwise be the case. Rumsfeld suggested a tightening of the rules, but without penalizing companies which have cooperated.

Amendment Unnecessary

"If retail beef prices move down sharply in the next few weeks, it may not be necessary to amend the regulations at this time," Rumsfeld said.

Grayson, meanwhile, told a group of business economists at Williamsburg, Va., said that the decline in wholesale beef prices "should soon be translated into lower prices at the meat counter."

He also cautioned businessmen against trying to figure out ways to evade controls or anticipating that the price controls will end by a specific date. He said businessmen should assume that they will continue indefinitely.

Grayson said he is worried about achieving the goal of ending price controls without a substantial risk of a new round of inflation.

Prison Probes Stabbing Deaths Of Two Inmates

Soledad, Calif. (UPI) — Two inmates were stabbed to death Thursday at Soledad State Prison — the troubled focal point of a protest movement which led to courthouse shootout charges against Angela Davis.

Prison officials said the two incidents were apparently unrelated, but they occurred within 35 minutes of each other. An investigation was under way.

The victims were Julio Antonio Lugo, 29, a burglary convict, and Thomas Oropeza, 19, imprisoned for an assault conviction.

The weapons used have not been found, and there are no suspects, prison officials said.

About 600 inmates in the wing where both stabbings occurred were locked in their cells. The 2,400 other inmates of Soledad maintained normal schedules.

County Sheriff Probes Burglary

A burglary of the Runza Hut at 2600 Park Blvd. was being investigated Thursday by the Lancaster County Sheriff's Dept.

Officers said $4.35 was taken from a cash drawer and an undetermined amount was removed from a soft drink machine after the door had been pried open.

HOME INVADED . . .

2 Hooded Men Rob Omahans

Omaha (AP) — Carl W. Renstrom, 69, widely known Omaha businessman, and his wife were awakened early Thursday by two hooded men and robbed of about $2,000 cash and jewelry of as yet undetermined value.

Police said the burglary appeared one of a series carried on by a "southern gentleman" in expensive homes in Omaha and elsewhere.

At least five prominent Omaha homes were robbed in a similar fashion during the last 13 months, sometimes by a single man. Sometimes the man had a companion.

Renstrom said he and his wife were not injured or even roughed by the robbers, who bound the pair with Renstrom's own ties.

"It's a very horrifying experience, naturally, to have somebody in the middle of the night burst into your bedroom and with all the lights on, see two men looking like Batman with hoods waving a gun at you and telling you to get out of bed," Renstrom said in an interview later.

He said the man asked him where the safe was and seemed disbelieving when told there was no safe in the house. The intruders took $800 from one wallet and $1,200 from another they found while ransacking the bedroom.

Renstrom said he had that much money on hand because he was planning a trip Thursday, but that he has never had a safe and usually doesn't keep that much money at home.

Renstrom is the founder of Tip Top Products Co., which he sold in 1964 for a reported $14 million, and is involved in several investment and land development activities.

Burglars Courteous

He said the burglars were courteous but warned the Renstroms not to try to get loose for 15 minutes and not to contact police.

Renstrom said the men removed an eight-foot high first floor window.

He said no other part of the house was ransacked as the burglars made their way to the Renstrom's second floor.

Three other persons were in the Renstrom's second floor bedroom.

Three other persons in the house, including their 12-year-old daughter, Lisa, apparently were not aware of the intruders. Also in the house were Maria Leggoretta, 21, from Mexico, whom the Renstroms are helping through college, and Alfredo Pintos of Acapulco, a house guest.

2,380 Pounds Of Meat Held Last Month

Chicago (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture said Thursday over 2,380 pounds of meat and meat products were detained in Nebraska this August.

Maurice Ewing, officer-in-charge of USDA's meat and poultry inspection program's review and compliance activities in the north central area, said the detentions resulted from routine investigations made by his officers in cooperation with various state agencies.

The federal law authorizes the detention of non-federally inspected meat and poultry products found in interstate commerce, and of USDA inspected meat and poultry products suspected of being unwholesome, adulterated or misbranded.

BROTHER, SISTER ACT LIKE TWINS

These two children, the son and daughter of Janice Holdsworth, were both born on Sept. 8 within the hour of each other, but two years apart. The children's grandmother, Mrs. John Schaaf of 727 B says they are so alike than when they are talking in the other room she can't tell them apart. They also have the same color eyes and hair, she said, and they cry alike. Chad, at left, will be 4 and Angela will be 2. Their mother is an executive secretary for an insurance company in Lincoln, but the two children were born in Kansas City. (Star Staff Photo)

7-Day Fair A Memory; 10 Days Next

. . . LONGER FAIR OPPOSED BY SOME EXHIBITORS

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The seven-day, one-weekend State Fair is now only a memory.

Next year the fair, by action of the State Fair Board, will be extended to run ten days.

The decision was not made without opposition — some board members were against the change. However, after the vote the board did make the decision unanimous.

Fair manager Henry Brandt believes the board was not deeply divided on the issue.

"I think the worst part of it was that these guys have businesses of their own and hate to leave it longer," he said.

Some of the people involved in fair activities, however, mainly implement dealers, have had a strong reaction against the board's action.

Others are pleased by the change.

From where Brandt, a proponent of the change, sits, the change is almost certain to improve the fair.

More People

Henry Brandt says the fair will give more people a chance to visit the fair.

"It will spread the crowd over two weekends and we'll have five days when kids don't have to go to school and people don't have to work," he said.

One of the biggest advantages of the change will be to alleviate the crowded conditions of the livestock shows.

"We have people who want to show but they can't because there's no room," Brandt said. "The ten-day fair allows us to make better use of our facilities."

According to Brandt, the longer run would allow him to split the livestock shows — for example, having half the dairy show during the first ten days and having the other half the last five days.

Less School Missed

Brandt said that if the 4-H and FFA shows were split on the same pattern, the young exhibitors "wouldn't have to to miss as much school, at the most three days."

Brandt said he doesn't think making the change will be more difficult because having smaller crowds and fewer livestock at one time will make it more manageable.

Joe Price, a concessionaire who runs a Topper food stand at the fair, is happy with the change, and he said he thinks most concessionaires "should be."

"I think its fine," he said. "Having it over two weekends will give more people a chance to get out to the fair. I know a lot of people who stayed at home because they wouldn't fight the crowd."

Price said he also thought the three-day extension would help his business.

Advantages Not Seen

Oscar Fiene, president of Lancaster Implement Company, however, doesn't see many advantages in the change from his point of view as a farm machinery exhibitor.

"We think it stinks," Fiene said. "It's going to be a lot of expense with no advantage."

Fiene said he felt that all the exhibitors who were at the fair purely to exhibit were against the extension.

"They're interested in getting people to their booth and if they don't get any more, they'll just have the expense of being set up for three more days," he said.

"Some are talking about dropping out," he said. "We haven't made a decision."

Fish Hatchery Use Center Of Dispute

Valentine (AP) — For three years, a building at the State Fish Hatchery here has been used for just about everything — except fish.

The lack of use has some local residents and the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission unhappy.

"The whole thing goes back to 1962," according to superintendent Bill Rhodes. "An old workshop burned down and the old aquarium was obsolete because of the lack of adequate spring water supplies."

The lack of water volume to operate the displays and draw the general public is thought by townspeople in the tourism industry to have not helped attract visitors.

Forgot Main Duty

"They forget our main duty here is the production of game fish for stocking state waters," said Rhodes. "Our assistance to the local tourism industry is only secondary."

When the commission gave Ely Construction of North Platte permission to go ahead with construction of a new multipurpose unit the builder went as far as he could and then filed bankruptcy.

The building, designed for holding tanks, shops, office and lab rooms, storage and the aquaria, has since been a problem for the commsision. The original construction included ten good holding tanks and two with cracks in the concrete sides.

The state could not accept an unfinished product and the builder had gone out of business.

State Runs Out

At the same time as the bankruptcy, the state ran out of funds for the facility.

In the past three years Rhodes and his men have used the building for storage, shops and a garage for their trucks. He has patched the six breaks in the tanks.

Plans now call for the installation of filters and the last of the equipment this fall and winter. Rhodes hopes to have the building in shape for proper use by spring or early summer.

Raised at the hatchery on an experimental basis are muskelunge, chain pickeral, Kentucky spotted bass, Sacramento and white perch, red ear sunfish and coho salmon. Several other varieties are raised on a regular basis.

Meeting Scheduled

The board of public roads classifications and standards will hold a public meeting Sept. 15 at 9:30 a.m. in the auditorium of the Dept. of Roads headquarters. An agenda may be inspected in room 302 of the same building.

North Platte River Polluted By Milling Plant, Suit Says

Denver (AP) — A suit was filed in U.S. District Court Wednesday by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) against a northern Colorado company for its alleged pollution of the North Platte River.

In its suit, EPA said the Ozark-Mahoning Co. of Cowdrey, which operates a fluorspar mining and milling plant, disposes of its waste products through a series of five settling ponds which eventually flow into the North Platte.

The dumping of the wastes, the suit says, has increased the sediment in both Pinkham Creek and the North Platte River.

Moreover, the suit claims, the pollution has caused a reduction of fish in the area.

The EPA asked the court to permanently halt the dumping of wastes from the ponds into Pinkham Creek, which flows into the North Platte River.

Ed Board Won't Make Proposal On State Aid

By The Associated Press

A deeply-divided State Board of Education Thursday decided not to make any recommendation on how much state aid to education should be spent during the next fiscal year.

The action thus turns over to the Legislature the job of answering the state aid question in what appears will be one of the major issues of the 1973 session.

Thursday's board action came after board members were unable to agree on amounts ranging from $50 million to $89 million annually.

"I think the Legislature is going to come up with a whole new plan of financing public education," said Board President Frank Landis of Lincoln. "We can't decide on anything and there's no use in us wrestling with it anymore."

Currently, $35 million is spent annually for state aid, but Gov. J. James Exon successfully vetoed a bill passed by the 1972 Legislature increasing the amount to $160 million.

New Bills Planned

Both Exon and Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, sponsor of the increase, say they will have new state aid bills next year.

Consideration of the issue has been prompted by recent court decisions holding unconstitutional the local property tax as the major means of financing public education because the tax provides inherently unequal education through differing property valuations.

The state board last year recommended $60 million but that figure was cut back to $35 million by the Legislature's Budget Committee.

Thursday, the state Education Department again recommended that $60 million be requested, but the board split 4-4 on approving that amount.

The board also split 4-4 on amounts of $50 million and $89 million, the latter figure representing full funding of the state aid formula.

$104.4 Million Request

The action came as the board considered a budget request for the next fiscal year of $104.4 million compared to $81.2 million for the current year. The figures including the state aid totals and the request approved was based on the $60 million figure, although only the non-state aid portion was approved.

Allen Burkhardt of Norfolk led board members seeking the lower figure while Gerald Whelan of Hastings was chief among members seeking the $89 million total.

Burkhardt argued any increase over $50 million was politically unfeasible while Whelan contended the board should ask for full funding of the original formula.

After board members were unable to reach agreement, Landis suggested the budget request simply be submitted with a notation that no figure was agreed upon along with a copy of the minutes of the meeting.

Petitions OKd By State Ed Board For Counties Joining College Areas

By The Associated Press

The state Board of Education Thursday approved a series of petitions by counties to join Technical Community College Areas, only one day before the deadline for such approval in time for a spot on the November ballot.

A series of four petitions were approved, but a request from Otoe County to join the Southeast Community College Area was withdrawn.

The action stems from a 1971 law setting up the state Vocational-Technical Community College System, directing that all 93 counties be in one of eight districts by 1973.

The petitions were submitted to the Board of Education by county boards in the various counties. The question of whether to join the Community College Areas will now go before voters in each county at the November election.

Friday is the deadline for Secretary of State Allen Beermann to certify any such questions for the ballot.

Petitions approved Thursday would divide Boone County, putting the northern half into the Northeast District and the southern half into the Central District; Butler County into the Central District; School Districts 95, 27, 29, and 39 of Dodge County into the Central District; and Brown, Rock, Keya Paha, Dakota, and Garfield Counties into the Northeast District.

Another petition, adopted by the county board last month, would have had Otoe County join the Southeast District, but the state board was told the Otoe County board had earlier this week rescinded that petition.

Don McBride of Nebraska City told the state board Otoe County commissioners felt further study was needed.

The action means a decision on which district in which to place Otoe will be made by the 1973 Legislature, since that 1971 law provided that the Legislature should place counties in districts if those counties were not within a district by 1973.

Board action Thursday came after brief public hearings on all the petitions.

Students Won't Lose Money In Aborted Start For NOVA

University of Nebraska-Lincoln officials said Thursday they intend to insure that no student or faculty member will suffer financial loss from his involvement in the now-aborted fall start for NOVA, the pioneering college-credit-for-volunteerism program.

Although a handful of NOVAs who began their work in low-income communities around the state in January are still on the job, the students who were to have begun this fall were called back last week when the federal government notified the university that it would not fund the new year's program, at least until January.

Caught in the middle were 16 education majors from the Lincoln campus. Many of them had already incurred expenses related to their assumption that they were to start their antipoverty work this fall.

UNL Teachers College Dean Robert Egbert said Thursday that "every legitimate expense" by those students will be reimbursed. Most of the students have re-enrolled as regular on-campus students.

NOVA Director Theodore Ernst, chief administrator for the program on all NU campuses, said the reimbursements would be made from funds remaining in the NOVA account.

He said the university intends to see that both faculty members and students are repaid.

Ernst said it's still possible that NOVA programs may begin again in January.

The programs were funded under University Year for Action an arm of the federal ACTION volunteerism agency. Federal officials suggested Nebraska prepare a new proposal for a January start.

NU's was the first of the University Year for Action programs instituted around the nation a year ago.

Omaha Police Fingerprint Men In Store

Omaha (AP) — Ray Power, general superintendent of Brandeis, said Thursday Omaha police are fingerprinting all male members of the downtown Brandeis store under 35 years of age as part of an investigation of the slaying of security guard Leonard B. Parkinson.

Powers said the fingerprinting started Wednesday on some 50 to 70 of the store's 500 employes who are involved.

Police have said that several "excellent sets of fingerprints' are the best clues they have in the shooting of Parkinson, 79, which is thought to have occurred between midnight and 2 a.m. Sunday.

Plans Told For Combining Two North Platte Hospitals

North Platte (UPI) — Plans were unveiled Thursday for consolidation of North Platte's two hospitals and eventual construction of an area medical care center in the city.

Various city and county officials, including Mayor Robert Phares, were present when a spokesman for the Great Plains Medical Center, W. W. Wood of North Platte, outlined plans for the $4 million medical care facility.

North Platte's hospitals, St. Mary's and Memorial, would be purchased and placed under one management under the plan, possibly as soon as next summer.

Wood said it has been estimated the cost of buying the two hospitals would be $1.2 million. He added that the Great Plains organization hopes to utilize equipment from the present hospitals and thereby cut costs somewhat.

The total cost of the project, including the purchase of the two hospitals, was estimated at $5.2 million.

The initial capital subscription of $1.2 million will be sought in the city. Representatives of the advisory boards from the present hospitals agreed with plans to consolidate their facilities.

Lincoln County commissioners present at the announcement said that "it sounds like a good plan to us."

Mayor Phares said. "We want to provide the best possible health care."

Mrs. Moore Named To Welfare Post

Tekamah — Mrs. Jack (Dorothy) Moore of Lyons has been appointed the new welfare director for Burt County, succeeding Lila Eagelton, who resigned from the post. Mrs. Moore, a native of Crete and graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, has worked in several counties as a case worker. She has been employed in Thurston County for the last three years and previous to that held similar positions in Dakota and Hamilton counties.

FHA Two-County Loans Total $1,404,000

York — Dwight Theobald of the York Farmers Home Administration office announces that during the fiscal year 1972 the York office approved loans in the amount of $1,404,000 for new loans in York and Hamilton counties. Loans currently outstanding total $5,426,306 to rural families in the York office. These funds were used for annual operating expenses, farm ownership, rural housing, soil and water loans, rural rental housing loans and association loans.

Clothing Drive Moved Up A Month

North Platte (AP) — The west central Nebraska annual clothing drive for Lutheran World Relief has been moved up one month this year, chairman Ed Launer of North Platte said Thursday. The once-a-year effort by Lutheran churches in the area will take place between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1 in order to complete it before the holidays. Last year nearly 15,000 pounds of clothing was collected in the west central Nebraska area.

Dr. Heinicke Going To Indian Reservation

Seward (UPI) — An associate professor of education at Concordia Teachers College will leave the campus here soon to be reassigned to a school on the Northern Cheyenne Reservation in south central Montana. He is Dr. William F. Heinicke, whose reassignment is through Concordia's center for Indian ministries and studies. The school is located in Busby, Mont., and has an enrollment of 416. Indian children from six reservations in Montana attend the school.

Omaha Memorial Honors Slain Athletes

Omaha (AP) — A memorial service was held at Omaha's Temple Israel for the Israeli athletes slain in Munich. Rabbi Sidney Brooks told those attending that "now is the time for self-examination, spiritual renewal and hope for the future." Both Jews and Christians attended. They heard Rabbi Brooks say the tragic event on the eve of the Jewish New Year "brings tears to the eyes of all decent men."

Broken Bow Jaycees First Fallfest Slated

Broken Bow — The Broken Bow Jaycees are inaugurating the first annual Jaycee Fallfest to be held in conjunction with the Broken Bow merchants' annual "Hey Days," Sept. 14, 15 and 16. A prayer breakfast featuring Dr. Paul Welter of Kearney State College is scheduled for Friday morning, Sept. 15. A teen dance is also planned by the Jaycees as well as a midway.

Douglas GOP Headquarters To Open

Omaha (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis and Rep. John Y. McCollister will be among those on hand Friday morning to open the 1972 Republican party campaign headquarters in Douglas County. The headquarters is located in the old Kilpatrick's building at 15th and Douglas Streets. The headquarters will serve all Republican candidates, including the Committee to Re-Elect President Nixon.

Eastern Buffalo County Tour Set

Kearney — A historical tour through the eastern part of Buffalo County is planned by the Buffalo County Historical Society for Sunday, starting at 1 p.m. First stop will be at the Windmill Recreation area south of Gibbon. The tour group will also stop at locations in the Gibbon area including the site of the county's first courthouse, travel along Interstate 80 to Shelton which follows the pioneer's route of the Mormon Trail, and return to Kearney with visits at early trail stops.

Meeting Set To Discuss New Center

Omaha (AP) — Douglas County Commissioner George Buglewicz said Dodge County officials have requested a meeting in Fremont next Wednesday on a proposal that surrounding counties join together in a regional corrections center facility.

Buglewicz said Dodge County officials informed him they have made no decision upon the request.

The Douglas County Board Tuesday will request bids on demolition of much of the courthouse, Buglewicz said.

It will be the first step in renovating the jail system, which officials have said is to result in a new $3.5 million corrections center in about three years.

Buglewicz said he has received a letter from Fred Moyer, director of the National Clearinghouse for Criminal Justice, Planning and Architecture, promising cooperation in helping the county acquire 75% federal funding for the corrections project.

Gothenburg Youth Killed In Accident

Gothenburg (UPI) — A rural Gothenburg teenager was killed Thursday night when the pickup truck he was driving slammed headon into a loaded hay truck driven by his grandfather 1.2 miles east of Gothenburg on a Dawson County road.

The State Patrol said the fatality, Craig A. Folkers, 16, was following a car driven by Mrs. Dwaine Aden, rural Gothenburg when the crash occurred.

Officers said when the eastbound Aden car slowed up to make a turn, Folkers apparently applied the brakes to his pickup truck and it skidded into the westbound lane, colliding with the oncoming hay truck driven by Fred Folkers of Gothenburg.

Trooper George Amos, who investigated the crash, said young Folkers was en route home from football practice when the mishap occurred. His grandfather was presumably taking the hay into Gothenburg, Amos said.

The elderly Folkers escaped serious injury, except for shock, the patrolman said.

Ammonia Leak Forces Evacuation At Kearney

Kearney (AP) — Hundreds of Kearney residents were ordered from their homes in the pre-dawn hours Thursday after a hose on a tank filled with ammonia developed a leak.

There were no reports of any ill effects from the ammonia and residents were permitted to return to their homes at 5:30 a.m.—two hours after they had been ordered to evacuate.

Police cruisers drove through the southern section of the city using loudspeakers to tell residents to evacuate. Radio station KGFW went on the air an hour earlier than normal to broadcast the warning.

Officials said a cloud of ammonia spread over the affected area. Members of the Kearney Volunteer Fire Department, wearing gas masks, sealed the leak about 30 minutes after it was reported.

The small field tank was loaded on a trailer.

At one point the cloud started shifting to the southwest part of Kearney where the Buffalo County Courthouse is located and Sheriff Vern Newbold said for a time it looked as through the 22 inmates of the county jail would have to be evacuated.

But the cloud dissipated before it reached the jail.

Newbold, who has been in office only about two months, said he and his staff are working on an evacuation plan which could be put into effect quickly in the event of future emergencies.

Iowa Beef Fined $500 On River Pollution Charge

Omaha (AP) — Iowa Beef Processors of Dakota City, Neb., pleaded no contest in Federal district Court Thursday to a charge of polluting the Misouri River and was fined $500.

Two other charges were dismissed after the company and the U.S. Justice Department reached an agreement on the company's efforts to abate pollution.

A federal grand jury had indicted the company in May on charges of discharging dark yellow-brown wastes with strong septic odor and grease globules into the river.

Iowa Beef pleaded innocent to each count but Thursday changed its plea on one count to no contest.

Senior Federal District Judge Richard L. Robinson levied the minimum fine after attorneys for both sides agreed that Iowa Beef is making every effort to comply with pollution laws.

Omaha Attorney Daniel G. Dolan, representing Iowa Beef, said the compnay is spending about $800,000 on a secondary waste treatment system.

Retired Omaha Officer Bragg Dies in Surgery

Omaha (AP) — Robert D. Bragg, 44, retired Omaha policeman who frequently was involved in controversies, even after his retirement, died Wednesday afternoon during open heart surgery.

Mr. Bragg retired in 1970 and subsequently became secretary-treasurer of the first nationwide police union in May 1970.

He had served three years as president of the Omaha Police Union.

During his police career, which began in 1952, Mr. Bragg was involved in several controversies. One concerned the resignation of 17 blacks from the Police Union because they said Mr. Bragg refused to fire a union business manager whom they said was dicriminatory. Another dispute led to the resignation of then Assistant City Atty. Walter J. Matejka.

Mr. Bragg was the first policeman to be awarded a disability pension under a new law which placed the burden on the city to prove that a man was not entitled to a service-connected disability pension.

Mr. Bragg told the city council he suffered a heart attack in May 1968, two months after he said he "felt chest pains" while chasing some youngsters believed to be carrying gasoline-filled bottles during the April 1968 disturbances on the Near North Side. The city did not contest his pension.

Mr. Bragg is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters.

Seoul (AP) — South Korea's worst floods in 47 years left 463 persons dead last month and caused property damage totaling nearly $67 million, the Construction Ministry reported.

Judge Tesar Backs Preventive Detention

Omaha (AP) — A "preventive detention" bill will be introduced in the next session of the legislature, District Court Judge Rudolph Tesar said.

Tesar said if a person is charged with a felony crime, is released on bail, and them is arrested for another crime, he should be jailed and held without possibility of bond.

"I have looked at the people who have been victimized and raped, and I have talked to the families of those who have been harmed by people who should have stayed in jail," he said at a meeting of the Downtown Rotary.

Judge Tesar said she opposes the U.S. Supreme Court's solicitous attitude for the rights of criminals" and its decision banning the death penalty except in certain cases set by state legislatures.

But he said court opinions are not responsible for the increase in crime.

"In my opinion, the increase in the crime rate is due chiefly to the economic factor and abuse in the drug field," which, he said "nearly overwhelms me."

Burglary Conviction Is Challenged

By The Associated Press

The Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday was asked to overturn the conviction of Darrell Nichols for burglarizing a Columbus store last January.

Nichols was convicted by the Platte County District Court because of an illegal search of the car in which he was riding by the State Patrol, defense attorneys contended in a brief filed with the high court.

According to the brief, the car was stopped by a state trooper who knew the two men inside as "known burglars" and found a radio on the floor of the car.

A check by the patrol revealed that Diers Supply Co. of Columbus had been burglarized, the brief said.

"If this conviction is to stand, it must be concluded that the highway patrol is given an absolute right to capriciously and repeatedly harass any motorist on our highways by forcing them to stop and submit to repeated driver's license checks," contended the brief.

Warner Rapped For Campaign Fund Statement

Bonnie Hibler of Unadilla criticized Thursday the primary election campaign expense statement submitted by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly. She called it a "slipshod job."

Mrs. Hibler, who is Sen. Warner's opponent in the November general election, said her "open letter" statement was prompted by Warner's declaration earlier he would seek to improve campaign practices and reporting legislation if re-elected.

Mrs. Hibler made public a summary of primary campaign expense records in the secretary of state's office as they concerned Lincoln-area legislative candidates. She said Warner spent more, at $991.51, to win renomination than did any of the other three candidates in the 25th Legislative District. Mrs. Hibler's own expenditures of $320.62 were third high—or second low—among the four.

She noted that Warner said he favored the required listing of every contribution of $25 or more to a campaign, but had not listed individual contributions to his own campaign.

I recently spent some time at Heritage House in Cleveland. They have some fabulous lawn care products and a sophisticated research center where they develop new products, and many turf trial plots (even a golf course) to demonstrate the use and effectiveness of their lawn care items. We use and sell many of their fertilizers and herbicides and know them to be safe and effective.

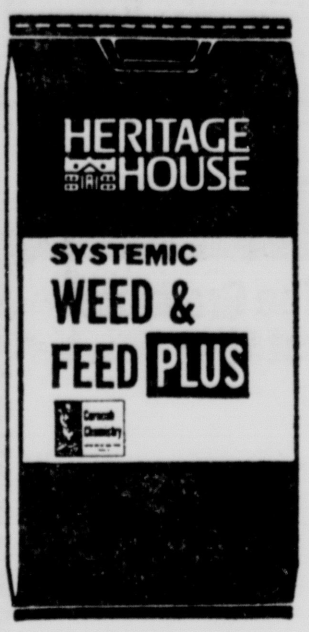
- Non-volatile—no vapors
- Treats more area for less money
- Sure kill for dandelions and most other broadleaf lawn weeds
- Kills from root up

DACAMINE gives good control of that terrible lawn weed SPOTTED SPURGE. The sap is milky and it sometimes spreads out and covers up your grass.

8,000 sq. ft. (Pt.)	$1.95
16,000 sq ft. (Qt.)	$2.95



A high value balanced fertilizer combined with a powerful weed killer that will not harm lawn grass, yet will kill dandelions and many other broad-leaf weeds.

5,000 sq. ft. bag only
$6.95

- 100% organic corncob carrier for developing humus.
- 21-6-11 proven formula for root development and greening.
- Contains iron and 5 additional nutrients for extra greening and prevention of chlorosis (yellowing). This is a fine, slow-release lawn food without any weed control.

5,000 sq. ft. bag only
$5.45

We have here at our Garden Center fine turf grasses. Stop and see them. So, we can do more than point to a bag and say "here it is," because we practice what we preach.

Late summer or early fall is by all odds the best time to seed or re-seed your lawn. See our fine, well maintained lawn areas, select the type of lawn you want and get your seeding done now.

Gray Departs From Hoover Tradition On Political Talk

The New York Times

Washington — L. Patrick Gray III, the acting director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has departed from the nonpolitical tradition of his predecessor, J. Edgar Hoover, by making a series of speeches that follow key points in the political line of the incumbent administration.

On at least one subject, by downplaying the significance of rising crime statistics, he has adopted a Nixon administration line that conflicts with the interpretation that Hoover put on the figures.

In at least one other address — an assertion in a speech Thursday that the federal government is not spending too much on national defense as compared to domestic programs — he is backing the Nixon administration's position on an issue that has little to do with his role at the FBI.

Hoover made few speeches and almost never spoke publicly during political campaigns, apparently to avoid the implication that he intended to aid one side or the other.

He usually announced his views through FBI publications or published congressional testimony, commenting usually upon subjects directed specifically to law enforcement personnel.

But Gray, an outspoken former naval officer who is a long-time supporter of President Nixon, has accepted speaking engagements at an increasing pace since Nixon made him acting director of the FBI last May.

His tendency to speak in support of administration policies has become increasingly evident as the political campaign has heated up, and it became more pronounced Thursday when Gray spoke in Butte, Mont., and Spokane, Wash.

In Spokane, he took a line similar to that currently being advanced in speeches by Atty. General Richard G. Kleindienst and other Justice Department spokesmen, who are calling for a relaxation of the Supreme Court's rule that excludes illegally-seized evidence.

Speaking to the Washington State Bar Association, Gray said, according to speech texts released here, that "many court decisions often go to unreasonable lengths to protect the accused."

He illustrated this by citing instances in which the Supreme Court's "exclusionary rule" had been invoked to throw out evidence obtained by police in violation of the Fourth Amendment's prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizures.

Gray suggested that the rule should be changed to exclude evidence only when the constitutional violation was "willful," the approach generally taken by spokesmen for the Justice Department.

It was an unusual statement for a high law enforcement official to make in commenting on a case that the Supreme Court will decide during its coming term when it considers the "exclusionary rule" issue.

In the appeal, California V. Krivda, state prosecutors are asking the Supreme Court to hold that only serious violations of the Fourth Amendment should result in the exclusion of evidence, and that police should be free to search suspects' garbage cans without warrants.

Gray said "human experience indicates that our garbage is the one thing all of us willfully, intentionally, and absolutely abandon." He did not mention that the issue is now before the Supreme Court.

Navy Agrees To Advance Plane Funds

(c) Washington Star-News

Washington —The Navy has agreed to provide the Grumman Aerospace Corp. with a $20-million advance payment that will keep the company financially afloat until after the Nov. 7 election.

The amount involved in the advance is double the sum the Navy put up in mid-August when the company agreed to postpone a key contract decision date from Oct. 1 until after the election.

Sources close to the situation said the company has also asked the Navy for an additional $6-million advance, for a total of 26 million, but no decision has been made on that request.

Grumman is the builder of the Navy's F-14 fighter plane. Under the original contract, the Navy was supposed to decide by Oct. 1 whether it would exercise its option for 48 more of the planes. But the company told the Navy early this year that it could not build the planes for the contract price.

To avoid a politically embarrassing situation just before the election — a situation in which the Navy might have to pay a higher price for the planes or Grumman might refuse to continue work on a major defense contract — it was agreed to postpone the decision date.

In effect, the advance payment from the Navy replaces Grumman's loss of credit with six banks, and gives the company a revolving fund from which to pay its bills.

As its bills come due, the company, whose headquarters are in Bethpage, N.Y., will dip into the advance fund. Then, as it delivers planes to the Navy, it will receive credit for the delivery and rebuild the fund.

No decision has been made on a new decision date. The company agreed to Dec. 1.

Civil Rights Law Proposal Is Outlined To Rights Group

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The rough draft of a proposed comprehensive civil rights ordinance for the city of Lincoln covering accommodations, housing and employment was outlined to the Human Rights Commission Thursday.

City Attorney Dick Wood, whose office has been working on the proposal, said as conceived, the ordinance would broaden the scope of the commission into a quasi-judicial agency and would establish an administrative officer to oversee and enforce the law.

The ordinance would incorporate language used in the 1969 Nebraska Civil Rights act covering equal and open accommodations, open housing and equal employment opportunities, Wood said.

The position of administrative officer could be incorporated under the office of Lincoln's present Human Rights Officer, a post held by Gerald Henderson.

Appeal procedures from the administrative officer's decision would include appeal to the Human Rights Commission, which would hold quasi-judicial hearings on the complaint, Wood explained.

Decision Binding

Decision of the commission would be binding — giving the 11-member group autonomous authority similar to the Zoning Board of Appeals and the Personnel Board. Currently, the commission is an advisory body to the mayor.

If the officer and commission determine that violations of the civil rights law have occurred. prosecution of the case would be initiated by the City Attorney's office. Penalties for violations would have to be determined, Wood said, but would not exceed the limits prescribed by state law.

The commission is scheduled to review the proposal in greater detail at their October meeting. If and when approved by the commission, the comprehensive civil rights ordinance would go to the City Council for action.

In other business, Ruth Egner of the Lincoln Organization on Utility Problems reviewed her group's actions and asked for the commission's endorsement.

Mrs. Egner explained that the organization provides funds to families that are unable to pay their utility (gas, electricity, water or sewer) bills.

Fill The Gap

"Our purpose is to fill the gap that welfare doesn't cover," she said.

Criteria used to determine eligibility for funds include "dire circumstances," or if the person is disabled, elderly or the number of children in the family, she added.

Although the organization concentrates on helping families living in the inner city, Lancaster County residents also have been helped. In 1970, its first year of operation, about 80 families were aided, with about twice that number aided during 1971.

The commission went on record supporting the agency and recommended that the mayor lend his support to the program. The only opposition came from Commissioner Jo Doris Bragg who said she did not think the program was getting to the core of the problem.

She contended, "The utility companies are using poor peoples' money, which helps keep them poor."

Deadline To Hike Tax Passes With No Action

The deadline for increasing the city's wheel tax has passed—with no action taken by the city to hike the current $8 fee.

In an Aug. 15th speech, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf had indicated an increase in the tax might be forthcoming to help pay the city's share of the cost for building the proposed bus terminal and garage in the block bounded by O, N, 11th and 12th.

Lancaster County Motor Vehicles Director Darrel Blank said "its now too late" for any increase for fiscal 1972-73.

The multi-use facility proposed for the downtown block is expected to cost $6.9 million. The city's share is estimated at $800,000, which would be paid through any remaining funds in the 1971 mass tansit general obligation bond issue, plus increases in both on-street parking revenue and the wheel tax.

The wheel tax raised approximately $720,000 last fiscal year, while parking meter revenue brought in $192,000 over the same period. The parking meter rate could still be raised this fiscal year, although no public hearings have yet been held on either the wheel tax or meter rates.

The facility would house a terminal for the Lincoln Transportation System, a parking garage, retail space and low income housing for the elderly.

Catholic Education Week Plans Being Formulated

Fr. James Dawson, superintendant of Lincoln Catholic Schools, Thursday night said plans were being formulated to observe Catholic Education Week, Sept. 17-22.

Fr. Dawson reported to the Lincoln Catholic School community relations committee that approximately 2,300 young people are enrolled in Lincoln's Catholic schools.

He said, "There are sound reasons why so many parents are paying their full share to support the city's excellent public system and then turning around and paying the full price to send their children to private schools."

Dr. Roy Loudon, chairman of the committee, said he felt there was strong support among the Catholic community for the private school system, "because they know that our schools are second to none."

Nader's ITT Merger Suit Is Dismissed

Hartford, Conn. (UPI) — A federal district judge dismissed Thursday a suit by Ralph Nader challenging the Justice Department's approval of the controversial and politically sensitive merger of International Telephone and Telegraph (ITT) and the Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

The merger was the subject of allegations earlier this year that an ITT subsidiary, Sheraton Hotels, contributed a large sum to the Republican Party for its national convention in San Diego in return for special consideration in approving the merger. The GOP later switched its convention to Miami Beach.

Nader had filed a suit claiming there never was full disclosure of the reasons the Justice Department approved the merger between ITT, a giant conglomerate, and Hartford Fire, one of the nation's largest insurance companies.

Lovebird Nest Includes Free Housing, Meals

St. Petersburg,, Fla. (AP) — Joseph Lazzaro runs a lovebird nest for about 100 wild parakeets who enjoy free housing, three squares a day and a dose of bonded bourbon whenever they're down with a cold.

Lazzaro, a 79-year-old retired hairdresser from Lyndhurst, Ohio, said he first set up birdhouses in his back yard two years ago but was unable to attract any of the bright green and blue parakeets to the rent-free housing.

Then he discovered that "if you want birds to come to your yard, you must have live birds to attract them."

So he put a couple of storebought parakeets in a cage in his back yard. Within a month he had treeloads of their wild chattering cousins, which biologist believe are the offspring of escapees from animal importers.

HE QUITS

Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., quit Thursday as head of Sen. George McGovern's voter registration drive. He cited a management dispute.

State Women's Political Caucus Leaders Named

Jean O'Hara and Diane Beecher were chosen as co-chairmen of the Lincoln chapter of the Nebraska Women's Political Caucus at an organizational meeting Thursday night.

People assigned to other departments were Sandy Horeis and Diane Beecher, finance; Jeanie Kelley Thorough and Lana Balka, membership; Stephanie Bair, publicity; Ruth Fauth, telephoning, Eva Sartori, newsletter; Maggie Malloy, programs; and Stephanie Bair, appointive officers.

Also named were: Anne Herman, speakers; Judy Wesley, liaison; Diane Beecher, voter service; Ruth Harper and Sandy Horeis, lobbying; and Maggie Malloy, public relations.

School Said No Panaces For Curing Ills Of Poor

© The New York Times

New York — Contrary to popular wisdom, efforts to provide better schooling for poor children would have "surprisingly little effect" on their prospects for economic success as adults even if such efforts were successful, Christopher Jencks of Harvard University said here Thursday.

In a news conference here, Jencks presented and described the report of a three-year study by a Harvard research team that is expected to provoke sharp controversy.

The conclusions of the study by the eight-member team directed by Jencks and supported by a $500,000 grant from the Carnegie Corporation challenge a belief widely held by education reformers of the 1960s: namely, that if children of the poor were taught to read, write and use numbers well, they would get well-paying jobs as adults.

Better education would open the door to economic opportunity, the reformers assumed, and the great income gaps between black and white, rich and poor and people in general would be narrowed.

Anyone who still pins his hopes on education as an instrument of economic reform is in for a bitter disappointment, says the study report.

The report, based on an extensive, computerized analysis of much of the data about family, schooling, jobs and income gathered during the last decade, offers a number of startling conclusions. Among them:

Neither racial desegregation, nor compensatory education, nor preschool programs, nor increased school spending, nor anything the schools have tried has significantly affected inequalities in what Jencks calls "cognitive skill." He defines this as "The ability to manipulate words and numbers, assimilate information and make logical inferences."

The schools, Jencks argues, merely solidify and certify cognitive inequalities that children bring to school with them. The report, to be published by Basic Books next month as a book written by Jencks, says that the effects of schooling on cognitive skill depend on a single factor, namely, the characteristics of the children entering school.

"Everything else — the school budget, its policies, the characteristics of the teacher — is either secondary or completely irrelevant," the report argues.

ABBY

she's a happy wife, mother and homemaker

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 27-year-old housewife with two small children. Now that my older child is in school all day I have time to watch some of the morning talk shows on television. Lately I have noticed that these shows have become a soapbox for Women's Libbers who tell me what an empty life I'm living. "The dull, dreary housewife, tied to dirty dishes, diapers and the family laundry." They say I have no chance to express myself or use my imagination.

I have never felt that I was "tied" to anything. I have a car in my driveway, and even if I didn't, I have two healthy legs to get me where I want to go.

As for expressing myself and using my imagination, I have done that the best possible way. I've made my own draperies and curtains and I've even upholstered my own furniture. I dream up a different menu for nearly every meal, and I express myself plenty where my children are concerned.

I am happy as a homemaker, and I wish women who find fulfillment in other ways would quit downgrading me. Since this wonderful country of ours began, the source of its strength has been the family. The wife and mother has made a house a home and held the family together.

Sign me "HAPPY IN OLYMPIA"

DEAR HAPPY: I'll tell Gloria and Betty, and Germaine and Bella.

DEAR ABBY: When I was in my teens I gave birth to a baby boy which I gave up for adoption because I was not married. My husband knows all about it and has never held it against me.

We have two darling daughters and are considering adopting a baby boy. We don't want another child unless we are sure of getting a boy.

I keep thinking maybe the reason I want a boy is to replace the one I gave away. If this is true, it wouldn't be fair to the child. My husband is satisifed with our family, but I am the one who wants a boy. Please help me decide.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: If you have any doubts or misgivings about your reasons for wanting to adopt a child, you'd be wise not to.

DEAR ABBY: My husband of 46 years insisted on renting the small house which is situated on our property to two young women. He did this last year in spite of my strongest objections. He doesn't need the money. His checking account is in four figures and he has an adequate pension. I also have my pension.

I made that little house habitable, but to hear him talk, he did it all himself. Unconscionable braggart!

Those women are in and out all day long and my husband enjoys looking at them far too much to suit me. I knew this would happen when he rented to them. At the time I couldn't decide between divorce or suicide. Now I have made up my mind. It's divorce. Why should I die and leave him living?

I'm not in need of any advice. I just want someone to tell me I have made the right choice. Have I?

SUFFERED ENOUGH

DEAR SUFFERED: You have.

Madam Chairman

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1♣	2♦
2♠	Pass	3♠	Pass
4♥	Pass	4♠

Opening lead — ace of hearts.

China finished fifth in the Olympiad and hence did not qualify for the semifinal round, but its team had the satisfaction of having met and vanquished all four countries — Italy, United States, Canada and France — that made it to the semifinals.

They beat the Dallas Aces by 12 imps despite this hand where the Taiwanese could have gained 12 international match points instead of losing 4.

With P. Huang and M. Tai North-South for the Chinese team — who used the Precision Club system throughout — the bidding went as shown. West led the ace of hearts and shifted to a club.

Tai realized that there was a danger of losing a heart, a club and two trump tricks (if West, for example, held the A-J-9 of trumps). So, in an effort to offset a second trump loser, he went up wih the ace of clubs, cashed the diamond ace, discarding a club, and continued with the queen.

When East covered with the king, Tai ruffed, entered dummy with a heart, and discarded his last club on the jack of diamonds. At this juncture matters took a severe turn for the worse. West ruffed with the nine and played a heart which was trumped in dummy with the deuce and overtrumped by East with the seven.

A diamond return was ruffed by declarer with the queen and overruffed by the ace. When West now played a fourth round of hearts, East scored his jack of trumps to put the contract down two. The effect of Tai's method of play was that, instead of meeting his goal of saving one trump trick, he wound up losing four!

Had Tai known that the trumps were divided 2-2, he could have made the contract by tackling them right away.

Dance Clubs Plan Varied Activities

The first fall dance for the Swing 'Em In Gingham Club will take place at Recreation Center No. 1, at 1225 F St., on Friday evening, Sept. 8. The evening of promenading and getting reacquainted with old friends will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

The Cross Trailers will officially kick off "Roundup" Month at a Saturday evening Sept. 9, dance which will be held at the Easterday Center at 61st and Adams Sts. The return to favorite dances and answering the callers' demands is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

CYNTHIA JOHNSON

GRACIA SIEB

Oftentimes the initial means of unleashing our creative talents is through instruction in techniques and methods in the area of our particular interests. If we have some basis for our actions, we will ultimately express ourselves more explicitly, and will feel more confident in doing so.

With this in mind, the Lincoln Community Playhouse has scheduled a series of fall classes open to anyone interested in learning about the various aspects of theatrical production.

The word "theater" not only refers to plays, actors and actresses, directors and the production crew, but it also includes several other dramatic forms, such as puppetry. For that reason there will be two puppetry classes offered by the Playhouse this year. Creative Puppetry, under the instruction of Miss Trish Haynes will teach the student how to create simple puppets of scrap materials. The class will enable the novice puppeteer to manipulate hand and rod puppets. The weekly sessions, beginning at 4:30 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 25, will continue for ten weeks.

Master puppeteer Lee Ridge will conduct a class in Contemporary Puppetry at the Playhouse, which will deal with the construction and use of puppets in television, education and theater. The class is ideal for educators, drama students, hobbyists and communications professionals. Monday, Sept. 25, also will be the starting date for this class's ten sessions, which will be held at 4:30 p.m.

All phases of makeup, from the application of ordinary street makeup to creating the face of a clown, will be emphasized during 12 study periods being taught by Mrs. Mark Muffley. The two-hour classes on Saturdays, at either 10:30 a.m. or 2:30 p.m. will begin on Sept. 30.

Carl Martens will be instructor for the Playhouse sessions concerning vocal techniques in choral singing and musical theater, at 7:30 on Tuesday evenings, beginning Sept. 26.

Training in light design, technical aspects and specialized lighting effects will be available at 2:30 on Saturday afternoons. Mrs. Jerry Culver will conduct the ten lessons beginning on Sept. 30, while Mrs. Dale Williamson will be in charge of Creative Drama for beginning and advanced drama students. The classes will start at 4:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 28, and continue for ten weeks.

All of the classes will be held at the Playhouse, and additional information concerning fees and materials may be obtained by calling the Theatre.

CHARLES M. RUSSELL . . . will be among the artists represented at a Western Art Show and sale which will be held at the Lincoln Community Playhouse Gallery on Sunday, Sept. 17, between the hours of noon and 8:00 p.m. In excess of 120 pieces of original artwork will be included in the show, and among the pieces offered for sale will be two bronze sculptures, a pen and ink sketch and a small watercolor by Russell, and a pen and ink drawings by writer-painter, Will James. Dick Duffy, owner of the gallery, and Bob Morgan, former curator of the Montana State Historical Society will accompany the show to Lincoln.

A VARIETY OF INSTRUMENTS AND COMPOSERS . . . will be represented at the first Elder Gallery Concert of the 1972-73 season which will be held on the Nebraska Wesleyan campus on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 10. Scheduled to begin at 3:00 p.m., the concert will feature musical numbers for the violin, piano, clarinet, and bassoon, as well as a selection of songs to be performed by soprano, Prof. Ruth Stephenson.

A RECEPTION . . . honoring two local artists will be held at the Haymarket Art Gallery, 119 So. 9th on Saturday evening, Sept. 9 between the hours of 7:00 and 9:00 p.m. Rick Otoupalik will demonstrate silk screen. and sculpture in wood and other media by Brian Quinn will also be on display. An exhibit of the works of the two artists will be featured at the Gallery through Sept. 27. As an added attraction to Saturday evening's festivities, John Soulliere's batik studio, located on the Gallery's second floor, will also be open.

THE MELLOW VOICE . . . of Roberta Flack is sure to please those whose musical tastes incline them towards jazz and soul. Miss Flack, whose intense rendition of "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face" recently brought her into the national spotlight, will be in concert at Pershing Municipal Auditorium on Friday evening, Sept. 8 at 8:00 p.m.

Goodbye To Suntan, Swimsuits

BY BERNADINE MORRIS

(c) New York Times Service

New York — The season for suntans and swimsuits is waning and stores are naturally concerned with what women will wear when it snows. Many of the new fashion offerings have foreign labels, preferably French.

The favorite son at Bergdorf Goodman is Hubert De Givenchy, who wraps women in sable or veils them in chiffon and always makes them look like ladies. Neatness counts with Givenchy, who belts his chemises, tosses a short sable jacket over a black sweater and pants and even makes sweaters and skirts look elegant.

About 250 of his American fans turned up Wednesday on the store's second floor to see what he had in mind for the first frost.

A surprise favorite was the black dinner suit in a man made fur that looks like seal. At $240, it is one of the good fashion buys in the collection.

Givenchy doesn't play any tricks with shapes. His best things are marvels of simplicity, such as the braid-edged black velvet coat which tops a matching velvet skirt and a white skirt. The daytime equivalent is the camel hair slender coat worn over a camel color suede skirt and a camel and brown striped sweater. No excesses and anyone can wear them.

A Matter Of Taste

BY RITA REIF

(c) New York Times Service

New York — Enter the willowy woman in the body-clinging, pink wool dress, she strides right up to the 9-foot-long rhinoceros, pats its smooth "skinned" snoot and, with a toss of her blonde hair, announces:

"It's going to be covered with ecological hair — probably cattle. The price? $12,000."

It was Mrs. Leonard Holzer speaking. Jane Holzer, that is. No, she doesn't call herself Baby Jane anymore ("just Jane, please," she pleads). After all, she's 31 now and less of an art production. (An Andy Warhol-superstar-art-production) than an art producer now.

What kind of art does she produce? Well, Francois LaLanne's rhino, for one, a mammal-shaped assemblage of two chairs, a footstool and sufficient remaining carcass to fill a vest pocket park as a playground sculpture.

Then there's that can of sardines, another polyurethane foam creation of the French sculptor, which is not for sitting and climbing, but for sleeping. Each one of the pillowlike silvery-blue sardines is $300. The complete bed, a small double (or is it a large single?) is $4,000.

The LaLanne flights of fancy are but two of about 20 furnishings that have gone on view in the "furniture by artists" exhibition at the Leo Castelli Gallery, 420 West Broadway. Eight artists were commissioned to produce about 20 furnishings for the show, which was organized and produced by Daedalus Concepts, a company that is the brainchild of Mrs. Holzer. Her partners in the enterprise are Leo Castelli, the Gallery owner; Kent Klineman, an investment banker, and Leonard Fisher, a designer.

Mrs. Holzer recalled how, in the summer of 1970, she found that "all my antique French things and my Louis XVI furniture didn't look right with all our modern art."

She had seen a 12-by-6-foot sofa by John Chamberlain, the sculptor, a design so imposing it could easily solve most decorating problems for a room in one fell swoop. She bought two—one for her New York apartment and one for her Southampton home.

Then, thinking other people might also like artist-designed furniture to go with the art on their walls, and quite unaware that many people had been decorating that way for years, she decided to approach other artists to try their hand at furniture.

Mrs. Holzer persuaded Chamberlain to scale down his sofa to the size of a baby grand — 6 foot square. She has six of the ones the artist personally carved out of blocks of plastic foam and left uncovered that she will sell for $1,500 each.

please join us on our tour of the shops

September is here, and all of the loyal citizenry in Go Big Red country knows what that means — the regular migrations to Memorial Stadium or other arenas across the land, as well as the hours of eyes glued to the television set and ears glued to the radio.

Residents of Cornhuskerland already are preparing for another fantastic season, getting out all of their Go Big Red gear and issuing invitations for listening parties at home.

On our tour of the shops this week, we sought new Go Big Red items — which really aren't that difficult to find — as well as new adornments for the family room which will be tuned into the games — and we also found educational ways for the preschoolers to occupy themselves during those hours when their folks assume the roles of avid Cornhusker fans, and also some suggestions for spending hours away from the armchair quarterbacking duties.

AT LAWLOR'S

Of course, the first home game is a mere week away, and Lawlor's has many varieties of wearing apparel for those fortunate thousands who will view the game first-hand.

However, we found many items which may adorn your home for the listening parties, including the '70-'71 National Champs plaque which features a picture of the players on the most recent championship team, all of the scores of the past few years. and Nebraska's record in the Big 8 conference.

We also found a fun helmet clock, carried out in the red and white theme of course, which would be a perfect addition to any recreation or game room. Other at-home items which proclaim the master and mistress to be in Big Red country include salt and pepper shakers, two styles of placemats, oversized jiggers which serve as cocktail glasses, plastic and styrofoam glasses, a 'rock people' resembling a Cornhusker player, pennants, wobble head plastic dolls, coasters, two sizes of napkins, toilet seats and covers, and many, many more.

Some of the newest Go Big Red paraphernalia includes director chairs, throw ruggs and doormats, double deck playing cards which have red on white, and white lettering on red — and the Big Red lights which proclaim 'Nebraska No. 1.' The red glow comes from an attractive bulb on a wooden stand.

Of course there have been many sorts of beer mugs in Cornhuskerland during the past few years, but we are particularly excited about the newest model which Lawlor's expects to have in stock in the very near future — The lidded steins play the "Fight Song" when the lid is lifted.

As every fan knows, the stadium turns into a sea of red come game day, and Lawlor's has apparel to suit every taste and need. There are many varieties of T-shirts — in red, white, and gray — as well as hats in three styles, the cowboy, fold-up, and beret. Other necessities for the Cornhusker fan include stadium blankets, bumper stickers, pins, sew-on-patches, decals, cord ties, tie tacks, garment bags, key chains, sweat shirts, windbreakers, red wool jackets, and even vinyl vests and Nebraska jerseys.

Needless to say, the sporting goods store has red and white footballs in two styles — either the playing type or the favorite of autograph seekers. And, for the colder days that are certain to come, we recommend the stadium bags which soon will be seen at Lawlor's. The 'warmers' are stepped into and are enclosed at the base to keep your legs and feet warm. Suspenders hold the stadium bag in place for those who prefer to rise to the occasion — applauding every touchdown.

AT HARDY'S

Football time means many hours in the family or recreation room — hours in front if the television or next to the radio — and Hardy's contour chairs will fit perfectly into the Big Red motif which has spread across Husker Land. The chairs are made of a red crushed vinyl with white trim. They also are featured in shades of yellow and black — and there are foot stools and stack pillows to match. In the more casual line, we also recommend beanbag chairs and the fun mushroom stools.

Herculon is the newest of fabrics for home furnishings which don't receive the most delicate of treatment. The fabric is practically indestructible — it won't soak up liquids or soil, and is stain resistant — and is constructed of the same fibers as indoor-outdoor carpets. The new fabric is sensational in an attractive green and brown tweed sofa — and its look-alike, Vectra, is featured at Hardy's in a durable blue and green plaid and recliner and ottoman.

Fake fur also is popular in family room furnishings — for those who prefer the more contemporary look. One of the sets we found at Hardy's is done in a gold fur with straight lines and high backs. The chairs are comfortable and are complimented by a couch, and recliner and ottoman.

The look of the 30s also is apparent in more casual furniture. We were taken by an extremely overtstuffed and soft set of furniture with huge, rolled arms. The ensemble is in a "gaudy' cotton print material in shades of pinks, blues, greens, and yellows. The love seat has a contoured back, and the occasional chairs have wooden arms and legs which reveal an Oriental influence.

Three-piece sectionals also are perfect for recreational rooms. The sofas and love seats have exposed wood arms and coordinating corner tables. One of our favorites features a brown, gray and black floral print in a lovely velveteen fabric.

For the game rooms, we recommend the high-low game table with wood-grained insets. The table, which can be used in either of the two positions, has matching chairs on those oh-so-convenient casters.

AT WILLIAMS NURSERIES

According to the experts at Williams Nurseries and Garden Center, the best advice they can give to each customer is to rigidly adhere to the helpful hint they have posted on their cash register. It states, "If all else fails, try following instructions."

If you are thinking of preparing your lawn for winter, the Williams staff suggests adhering to one of the "musts" keep your lawn well watered during the summer season. However, an added precaution against winterkill is to aerate the yard in the fall and apply a high phosphate fertilizer which will help develop deep grass roots.

Among those sold at Williams are "Scotts: Starter Fertilizer," "Heritage House: Winter Turf Food," "Mr. Green" and "Super Phosphate." All of these are available with different ratios of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash so that you may select a mixture suitable to your particular lawn problems.

Shrubs really need no other care for winter other than to be kept very moist, according to personnel at Williams. We also were reminded that now is the time to plant bulbs including tulip, hyacinth, iris, narcissus, daffodils and peonies. And it is a good idea to apply a bone meal fertilizer when the bulbs are planted and — read those instructions!!

AT HOVLAND-SWANSON

In the past years one of the main concerns of toymakers was to create a toy enabling a child to entertain himself. Today, although keeping a child busy is important, much attention has been focused on educational toys. At Hovland-Swanson, they feature "Creative Playthings" that are designed to be safe, fun and also educational.

Popular items among mothers of infants are the mobile crib toys such as the 'Activator,' which has wooden balls, one red and another blue, suspended from elastic strings that, when pulled, cause two other balls of matching colors to hit a wooden block or ring a metal bell. This crib toy teaches the infant to distinguish between different colors since he soon will associate the blue ball with the sound of the wooden block, and will also learn that the red ball rings the bell.

Playthings for the baby also include the soft, washole bears and dogs of foam rubber and cloth, as well as teething rings, rattles, plastic tub toys and a clutch ball that is molded of plastic having several deep indentations so that it is easy for tiny hands to pick it up.

The toddler has not been forgotten by "Creative Playthings." For this youngster the thread spool has been invitend. The large spool, made entirely of wood, contains several large holes through which a large wooden needle, attached to yarn, may be threaded. This toy aids the development of hand and finger dexterity. Large cloth bricks of foam familiarize the youngster with the different shapes pictured on the light weight, washable blocks, while the child learns to balance them.

Items for the preschool children are the many matching games along with wooden puzzles. One "Look In" puzzle features either a farm, a street of shops or a busy highway of motor vehicles. Each figure lifts off the puzzle to expose the people riding in a bus, or what is happening in a bakery, or the animals in a barn.

Another sturdy number puzzle teaches the preschool child to associate the numbers with the grouped items. The 'Perception Plaques' provided by Creative Playthings at Hovlands teach children to observe detail. The Plaques display several faces all similar except for a few minor changes, such as a different shaped nose or a missing eye, and the child must pick the faces that match one another.

Cosmetic Psychology

BY ENID NEMY

(c) New York Times Service

New York — There is, according to J. Tylee Wilson, a corporate vice-president of Chesebrough-Pond's, "an awful lot of psychology in the cosmetics business."

"It's a business of hope," said Wilson, whose company's brand names include Pond's and Cutex. "There's a great co-relationship conceived by the consumer between price and beauty . . . the more expensive it is, the better it must be."

Many women do, indeed, believe that the more the product costs, the more efficacious it must be; equally as many are convinced that the ingredients in the prestigious cosmetics lines are no more costly than those sold in dime and discount store. The answer lies somewhere in between.

"You may get better ingredients in expensive products but not enough to account for the difference in price on that basis alone," said Martin Revson, the head of Dell Laboratories, which manufactures Flame-Glo, ally Hansen and Lash-Brite cosmetics for chain, drug and variety stores. "In the final analysis, it's snob appeal."

To Leonard Lauder, executive vice-president of Estee Lauder, women don't necessarily want to shop for value when they buy cosmetics, "but if we were selling a jar of hope, we would have been out of business."

What accounts for the price as high as 500 per cent in cosmetics?

Spokesmen for the "francised" lines, the companies who select the stores to whom they sell (as opposed to the less expensive lines that are usually sold to wholesalers and then a variety of outlets), list a number of factors.

Research and development.

More stringent quality control.

More variety in shades and colors and greater risks in introducing and keeping up with fashion trends.

More expensive containers and packaging. Lipstick cases, for example, range in price from 6 cents up to about 32 cents, about 33 per cent of the cost of producing the product.

Greater costs in advertising, sales promotion, sampling, free gifts and doing business with influential retail stores.

A return and exchange policy that guarantees customer satisfaction and frequently allows stores to return merchandise at periodic intervals. Returns can run from 6 to 15 per cent of shipments and one manufacturer estimated that his company took back "several million dollars worth of perfectly good products" annually. Most returned products are destroyed.

More costly ingredients.

Most cosmetic companies, inexpensive, moderately priced and expensive, spend somewhere between 30 and 40 per cent of the wholesale cost of the product on the basic ingredients, the labor involved in making the item and the packaging. A lipstick that sells in the store for 80 cents would likely have cost the store 48 cents (the almost invariable markup on cosmetics is 40 per cent) and would have cost the manufacturer approximately 16 cents for ingredients, labor and packaging. A lipstick that retails for $4 would usually have cost about 80 cents in manufacturing.

"It sounds like baloney but it costs more money to make a better product," said Paul P. Woolard, president of Revlon.

Woolard pointed out that even within his own organization, there was a price difference in ingredients.

"The Ultima lipsticks contain more expensive oils — peach kernel and almond," he said. "Revlon and regular lipsticks have castor or mineral oil. Ultima wrinkle lotion is 100 per cent mollient oil; Revlon is an emulsion, which means it has water in it."

Research and development was listed as a major cost at most large companies. At Revlon, the price tag is said to run to $3 million annually; at Estee Lauder and Elizabeth Arden, more than $1 million a year.

Most companies, in every price range, have some form of quality control. The degree varies according to the price of the finished product. In lipsticks, some of the cheaper lines are not flamed, a process that seals the pores of the lipstick, prevents it from drying out and adds a shine by bringing oil to the outer surface. Products are also more apt to get by with small imperfections and color inconsistencies.

Ombudsman's Office Can Handle Some Consumer Complaints

By United Press International

State Ombudsman Murrell B. McNeill said his office is able to lend assistance in the general field of consumer protection in at least some cases.

"We have had a number of consumer oriented complaints and we can assist if a state agency is involved," he said.

That doesn't mean that all other pleas for assistance are completely ignored, McNeill said, adding "every inquiry we receive" is answered in some manner.

"In some cases, we just have to admit we can do nothing," he said. "But in a remarkable number, we have been able to refer them to an agency of government that can help."

Noting the national cry for better consumer protection, McNeill said from his viewpoint "there's always room for improvement." One avenue of improvement is through government itself, he said, and another is on the part of the individual.

"It is up to government to be watchful and helpful in terms of possible appropriate legislation," he said.

That, he noted, is being taken care of in Nebraska by an interim study committee of the Legislature.

The committee, chaired by Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway, decided earlier this week it would concentrate efforts on the consumer protection field and offer legislative suggestions to the 1973 Legislature.

"But there is also room for prudence on the part of the individual," McNeill said. "I would be perfectly honest to say a number of complaints we have received involve out of state vendors who fall in the category of 'fly-by-night' salesmen."

Uusually, he said, those who contact his office are "just exploring."

"They don't know where to turn and are wondering what avenues are open to them," he said.

There are a number of statutes which can be brought to bear in many cases and thus the ombudsman's office can refer persons to agencies of government having jurisdiction.

Those include such agencies as the Real Estate Commission, the Insurance Department and the Agriculture Department, just to name a few, McNeill said.

The actual part the ombudsman can play, however, he said, is limited by both law and tradition.

Legally, an ombudsman does not have enforcement or investigative powers, McNeill said, particularly in the area of private matters.

"Traditionally, an ombudsman does not have jurisdiction over private matters," he said. "They exist for matters involving government."

Also, he said, ombudsman programs are not designed to give legal advice by actually taking on court litigation in behalf of private individuals as would be required in many consumer incidents.

"Sometimes, not just in consumer protection complaints, we just have to tell people to contact their own attorney," McNeill said.

But he added, the attitude people should have is that anything is worth a try.

Drs. Osborne And Toews Leaving LRC Posts

Dr. Robert Osborne resigned from his post as Lincoln Regional Center (LRC) director Thursday following the resignation of Dr. Jay Toews, counseling psychologist at LRC, who has been the center of a recent controversy with employes at the center.

The Toews affair precipitated his decision to resign, reported Dr. Osborne, who supported Dr. Toews' treatment approach in his position as system programs director.

Dr. Osborne also said that he had "reached a point of mutual lack of confidence between himself and his superiors. He noted that his direct supervisor is Dr. Jack Anderson, medical services director of the State Public Institutions Dept. (DPI).

Following his resignation, which will be effective Oct. 31, Dr. Osborne plans to return to private practice, a move that he has been considering for more than a year. He indicated that he would be happy to provide clinical services to LRC as a consultant under contract as other Lincoln physicians do.

A graduate of University of Nebraska College of Medicine, Dr. Osborne has spent 13 years in DPI positions. Prior to his current position, he served five years as medical services director preceding Dr. Anderson.

Dr. Toews, whose resignation is effective "immediately," reports that the LRC employes' petition for his resignation had "no bearing" on his decision to resign. He labelled such controversies as "insufficient cause'' for resignation.

Instead, he pointed to "very substantial changes in administrative philosophy in the field of mental health in Nebraska" as the reason for his decision.

He went on to say that the point of view he was hired to implement was no longer supported by the changes in attitude and direction in mental health services.

Dr. Toews expressed his belief that there is a cadre at LRC at the technician level who are "thoroughly committed to patient care and have the skills to back up their committment."

He is presently undecided as to future plans.

Batchelder Claims NU Too Permissive

Omaha (AP) — Former State Sen. Clifton Batchelder of Omaha declared Thursday that the University of Nebraska as a whole is an administrative and organizational jungle and that its present administration is excessively permissive.

Batchelder, who seeks the Second District Board of Regents seat now held by Kermit Hansen, made the comment Thursday in a talk prepared for the Douglas County Republican Women's Club.

He said North Central Association of Colleges and Universities in its 1971 report on the status of accreditation of the University made 12 references to poor leadership, planning and organization.

"It indicated that three years after the merger of Omaha University, administrative problems between the two institutions were still not solved," he said.

Batchelder said he feels the majority of Nebraskans want the University to be "the kind of an educational institution that will provide degrees to graduates that will be impressive to prospective employers."

"According to the report from the North Central Assn., he said, "our academic rating is not good even among state institutions."

Batchelder said people want the University to "be the kind of school that provides for our young people influences and an environment conducive to the development of integrity, good moral character and respect for our country and its institutions.

"Our present administration by its permissive attitude, has exposed students to every form of human depravity while lawlessness and disorder on the campus has prevailed to the point where some students are afraid to go to the library in the evening for study or research," he said.

GOP Slates County Drive

Republican State Chairman Milan Bish and National Committeewoman Pat Smith will join more than 500 volunteer workers in a canvass of Lancaster County voters Saturday.

Purpose of the Target 72 canvassing program is to find all the unregistered voters in the county and encourage them to register and vote Republican, County Chairman Art Knox of Lincoln said.

Congressman Charles Thone, Sen. Carl Curtis and county commossi renicandidate Jan Gauger will greet the volunteers as they arrive at the Villager Motel Saturday morning for a brief training session.

Contest Winner For Pier Is The Pier

St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP) — Joseph E. Duffy won a $25 saving bond on Thursday in a contest to name the city's new fishing pier. His entry was among 1,500, which were narrowed down to 15. The final selection was made by a drawing.

Duffy's contest-winning name? The Pier.

Reiling Is Named Deputy Director Of Roads Dept.

State Engineer Thomas Doyle announced the promotion of Merle F. Reiling as deputy director of the State Roads Department for Administration.

Doyle said the promotion to the $18,000 a year post was effective Tuesday.

Reiling, 44, replaces retiring Roy E. Gardner. He officially leaves the Roads Department Sept. 22.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

In old San Francisco, Playland-at-the-Beach is on the way out. The dippy roller coaster. The mirror mazes. The Fun House where the man pushed the buttons that sent streams of air ballooning the girls' dresses.

In Oregon, the state fair tossed out the Tunnel of Love.

"No demand for that sort of thing," they said.

What's going on, dear hearts? When I was tunneling for love, we needed all the edge we could get.

The Love Game has been computerized, that's what.

☆ ☆ ☆

A computer organization offers me a perfect date. (How I got on this mailing list I'll never know. But, better late than never.)

"Your likes and dislikes, strong points and weak points, are carefully coded into the computer. The computer analyzes this (thunk!) and chooses a perfect mate."

☆ ☆ ☆

That's the way Love works in the new transistor world. No more candlelight and wine and spaghetti dinners.

No clutching on the whizzing roller coasters.

The air vents that sent the skirts flying are silent.

The Tunnel of Love has been drained. The swan boats docked.

Feed yourself into the computer. You come up with a lady shot putter.

☆ ☆ ☆

"By programming the computer with all your emotional and physical data, we can discover the perfect date for you. Just fill in the attached form.'

Some searching questions in here. Some of them I wouldn't answer to a shrink. Some a shrink wouldn't even think of.

"I don't think the New People have dates. Sometimes I get a chance to interview a youngish muffin. Their eyes are on the stars — but not the way it was.

"He was real far out. Then I found his Moon as in Scorpio."

☆ ☆ ☆

Most companions are fed into an astrology chart. All young cupcakes are deep in astrology. They play the stars like a horse player works on the form sheets.

"I could tell he was Virgo right away. The way he handled his knife and fork."

(Virgo's are picky people. I gather this chap polished his silver with the napkin.)

Aquarius is a good sign. We are in the Age of Aquarius.

If you can't get a date on the computer, tell people you are an Aquarian. Right on! Far Out! (And whatever else is being said.)

☆ ☆ ☆

"Love ranks fourth among the ingredients for a successful marriage." So say The Future Homemakers of America, a bunch of young muffins with computer eyes.

They are unmarried of course — that's the future part about it.

Lots of confidence though. Love is an out-of-the-money bet. But they have other things in mind.

What makes a successful marriage — besides having his Sun trine your Moon, luv?

The Future Homemakers rate: "Similar religious background is number one."

Second: "A completed education." (Very hand if they still play scrabble.)

Third: "Sufficient maturity for marriage." (Show me anybody who admits not being mature enough.)

And, after that, we have Love.

☆ ☆ ☆

The computer people don't even mention Love. They get in education and religion. Sports and what-have-you-read-lately, kid. Computers whizzing. Stars falling.

And roller coaster romance has gone with the wind vents.

Forecast For Friday

Capricorn can ride with the tide — or a storm. Natives of this zodiacal sign can bob-and-weave, can duck and counterpunch, can evade blows and take the defensive at precisely the right moment. These persons have goals and usually achieve them — one way or another. The goal is set early in life, is achieved late and success is savored due to initial hardships. Carpicorn has a good appetite — for food and living.

Firestone Head Robert D. Thomas Plans To Retire

Akron, Ohio (AP) — Robert D. Thomas, 62, president of Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. announced he was taking early retirement because of illness.

The company said Raymond C. Firestone, chairman and chief executive officer, would reassume the additional duties of the presidency.

Thomas, whose father once served as president of Firestone, had been with the company for 40 years. He was named to the board of directors, on which he will continue to serve, in 1966 and was elected president in 1970.

In addition to continuing as a director, Thomas will serve the company as a consultant.

3 Missing Wyoming Youths Found; Two In Lincoln And One In Arizona

By United Press International

A massive search by Wyoming authorities for three Rawlings youths missing for about 18 days ended with the apprehension of two in Nebraska and another in Arizona.

Lincoln, Neb., police reported Thursday that Walter J. Thomas, 17, and a 14-year-old boy were taken into custody Wednesday night at Lincoln General Hospital. Information provided by the two led to the apprehension of the third youth, an 11-year-old boy, at a bus stop in Windsor, Ariz., as he was enroute to Santa Rosa, Calif.

Police Chief Charles Oats of Rawlings said the saga began when Thomas took the two boys to a movie in Rawlings late last month.

Oats said investigation revealed that the three then went to Cheyenne and lived in a hotel for several days while Thomas picked up an estimated $200 check from the Burns Detective Agency where he had been working as a guard.

Oats said Thomas got the job with "trumped up identification" and lived in a trailer court in Cheyenne. It was not known how long he held the job.

Thomas, whose parents are divorced with the father living in Cheyenne and his mother in Rawlings, then apparently took the two youths across the border into Nebraska. At least one stop, in Lexington, was made before the trio reached Lincoln.

Lincoln police said Thomas and the 14-year-old were taken into custody at the hospital where Thomas had gone for treatment of an alleged shoulder separation. He reportedly told hospital personnel that he was 20-years-old, and police said surgery had been scheduled. The 14-year-old was apprehended surgery was apprehended when he went to visit Thomas in the hospital.

Police said the three had been living in a rooming house in Lincoln. In addition, police said Thomas went to the Lancaster County Welfare Office in Lincoln and told them this wife had died and he needed emergency funds to take care of two children.

Police said Thomas received a check for $158 from the welfare department. County Welfare Director Earl Trabert told newsmen Thursday he could give out no information on the incident, except under a court order.

However, police said Thomas had made restitution of the welfare money and was being held for Wyoming authorities in the Lincoln city jail.

Oats said he was uncertain what charges, if any, would be filed against Thomas. He said action was pending on what information the parents of the two other youths involved had gained from their sons, who the chief said "had never been away from home for any length of time."

Oats said all levels of Wyoming law enforcement had been involved in the search. He specifically credited Cheyenne juvenile authorities "for turning handsprings for us" in coming up with the apparent lead which led to the finding of the youths.

Church Study Castigates Professors

New York (AP) — The president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod has issued his long-awaited report on his investigation at the denomination's chief seminary, charging it is conveying "false doctrine."

The Rev. Dr. J. A. O. Preus, president of the 2.8-million-member church, called on the board of control of Concordia Seminary in St. Louis "to deal with those professors" involved.

"The majority hold a view of the Scriptures which in practice erodes the authority of Holy Writ," his report says.

"We stand at the crossroads," Dr. Preus says in an epilogue to the 160-page report.

"To many of the professors theology seems to be something to be discussed with pros and cons . . . The world and the church do not need more questions or debates. We need answers, given with conviction and certainty," according to the report.

Although questioning of the 45 faculty members and examination of their writings and lectures took place more than a year ago, the findings had not been made public until now.

Keen feelings have smoldered in the church throughout the process, with sharp reactions on both sides to it.

Already one professor, Dr. Arlis J. Ehlen, had been dismissed by the church's administration, which overruled the seminary's board to do it.

State Medical Group Elects New Officers

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — The Nebraska chapter of the American Academy of Family Practice winds up its annual meeting here Friday — the first ever outside Nebraska.

"We decided to hold it in Las Vegas as an incentive to increase our attendance," said Lyle Nelson of Crete, Neb, who was installed Thursday night as president of the organization. "We usually hold it in the state."

Nelson said about 44 members flew out as a group for the meeting which began Wednesday. About a dozen other members joined them here.

"This compares favorably with the previous attendance in Nebraska," he said, adding the Nebraska chapter was about 640 members — 254 of them practicing physicians.

During the meeting, he said, the delegates spent most of their time in scientific sessions discussing various medical problems and ways to promote the family practice profession.

Scott Moore of Lincoln, Neb., was named president-elect to succeed Nelson next September. Dr. Warren Miller of Columbus, Neb., was named vice president at Thursday's session.

Elected to the board of directors were Frank Colon of Friend, Neb., and Irv Weston of Lincoln, Neb. John Brown of Lincoln, Charles Ashby of Geneva and Clyde Midler of Columbus were named delegates to the national organization.

Nelson said about two-thirds of the delegates planned to travel to Los Angeles to watch the Nebraska-UCLA football game Saturday night.

One Record In Danger

One record established last year by the Big Eight football teams that should be in danger this season is the one for winning percentage in non-league encounters.

Last year, the Big Eight enjoyed a phenomenal 28-8-1 log in non-conference contests for a winning percentage of .771, making the five-year mark read 81-39-3 for a percentage of .662.

This season's non-league slate figures to be much easier than a year ago when Colorado tangled with and defeated LSU and Ohio State, Oklahoma whipped Southern Cal and a Texas team that was more highly-regarded than the Longhorn team the Sooners will face this fall.

Ohio State and LSU have been replaced by the likes of Cincinnati on the Colorado schedule and none of the Buffs' non-conference foes is ranked in the Associated Press' pre-season top 20.

Neither Nebraska nor Iowa State shows a top 20-rated team on its non-conference lineup and only Oklahoma State plays a team ranked in the pre-season top 10, facing fourth-ranked Arkansas.

Kansas State faces 12-rated Arizona State, Kansas meets 19th-ranked Florida State, Missouri goes against 13th-rated Notre Dame and Oklahoma faces 14th-ranked Texas in other games pitting Big Eight teams against teams in the pre-season top 20.

A look at the opening week's contests.

The Big Eight

NEBRASKA 23, UCLA 7 . . . It may take the Husker offense a while to jell this season, but they'll get close enough for Rich Sanger a few times.

COLORADO 30, California 14 . . . The Buffs are missing Cliff Branch, but they can grind it out against most folks.

OREGON 27, Missouri 21 . . . Last year, the Tigers couldn't score. This year, they have trouble keeping others from scoring.

KANSAS STATE 35, Tulsa 10 . . . The Wildcats are going to be looking ahead for about a month, to that Oct. 7 date with Colorado.

KANSAS 34, Washington State 7 . . . If you don't have a good pass defense, you're in trouble against the Jayhawks.

The Top Ten

ARKANSAS 28, Southern Cal 20 . . . It's always a mystery as to which games the Trojans are going to decide to play for keeps in. If this is one of them, look out Razorbacks.

ALABAMA 35, Duke 14 . . . The Crimson Tide lost Johnny Musso, but Duke is no Nebraska.

WASHINGTON 42, Pacific 7 . . . Sonny Sixkiller can get off to a good start in his Heisman Trophy quest.

The East

FLORIDA STATE over Pittsburgh . . . SYRACUSE over Temple . . . WEST VIRGINIA over Villanova.

The South

CLEMSON over The Citadel . . . TENNESSEE over Georgia Tech . . . AUBURN over Mississippi State . . . NORTH CAROLINA over Richmond . . . NORTH CAROLINA STATE over Maryland . . . SOUTH CAROLINA over Virginia . . . SOUTHERN MISSISSIPPI over Texas-Arlington . . . TOLEDO over Tampa . . . VANDERBILT over UT-Chattanooga . . . EAST CAROLINA over VMI . . . WAKE FOREST over Davidson . . . WILLIAM & MARY over Furman.

The Midwest

KENT STATE over Akron . . . TEXAS A & M over Wichita State.

The Southwest

HOUSTON over Rice.

The Far West

OREGON STATE over San Diego State . . . ARIZONA over Colorado State . . . UTAH STATE over New Mexico State . . . SAN JOSE STATE over Santa Clara . . . WYOMING over Idaho State.

Pro Cage Merger Approved By Subcommittee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee approved legislation Thursday which would allow the merger of the National Basketball Association with American Basketball Association.

A key amendment tacked on to the bill, introduced in the Senate more than a year ago, would virtually eliminate the controversial reserve clause for professional basketball. This amendment would permit drafted players to be signed only for two years. After that point a player would become a free agent, able to negotiate on his own with any team.

This amendment could open the door to similar legislation involving other professional sports, a subcommittee staff member said.

The subcommittee added one amendement which applies to all major sports. It calls for the end to television blackouts in the home area of bowl and "unscheduled playoff games" which are sold out.

A spokesman for the subcommittee said this provision would not affect regularly scheduled playoff games—such as pro football's Super Bowl. He said, for example, that it would apply to playoffs involving two teams which were tied at the end of a regular season.

Other amendments approved by the subcommittee would:

—Void the $1.5-million entry fee which the original bill would have permitted the NBA to assess against each ABA team as a condition for a merger.

—Protect high school and college basketball games by providing television blackouts of pro basketball games on Tuesdays and Friday nights in areas where scholastic basketball games are being played. This could involve virtually the entire nation.

The bill, which was strongly attacked by many professional athletes in all sports, goes next to the full Senate Judiciary Committee.

The measure approved by the Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee would permit the NBA and ABA to merge "if such agreement does not decrease the number of professional basketball clubs so operating . . ."

The amendments were passed unanimously by the five-man subcommittee, the spokesman said, except the one eliminating the entry fee. Sens. Philip E. Hart, D-Mich., and Roman Hruska, R-Nebs., voted to retain the $1.5 million assessment.

Told in New York of the subcommittee action, ABA Commissioner Bob Carlson said: "I'm elated, very happy, very optimistic."

Carlson, who took over as ABA commissioner in July, said "The merger is more a realtiy now than it has ever been. We would expect to have a merger and an integrated schedule beginning with the 1973-74 season."

Carlson said he believes that the full Senate committee will vote on the bill promptly. "There's every reasonable possibility to expect a vote in the Senate before it adjourns," he said.

He also said he anticipated no further delay in the House. The ABA has been in existence for five seasons.

Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the NBA which came into existence in 1946 said: "Until I see the full text of the action taken today, I will have no further comment."

Yanks-Russia Set In Finals

. . . TWO GOLD IN TRACK

Munich (AP) — The United States sent its never-beaten basketball team into the finals against Russia and picked up two precious victories in track Thursday, but still could not catch the Soviet Union in the gold medal race of the Munich Olympic Games.

Hank Iba's youthful cagers, led by the scoring of Jim Forbes of Texas-El Paso with 14 points and Tom Henderson of New York with 10, and the great defensive work of Mike Bantom of Philadelphia, crushed Italy 68-38 and qualified to meet America's traditional court rival, Russia, for the championship Saturday night. The older and more experienced Russians came from behind for a 67-61 triumph over Cuba.

Hurdler Rod Milburn and quarter-miler Vince Matthews were the track aces who sent the strains of the Star Spangled Banner ringing through Olympic Stadium.

Previously, the Americans had been able to grab only one gold — the 800-meter victory by bridegroom David Wottle of Canton, Ohio — in five days of running, jumping and throwing.

But when the national anthem was played following Matthews' victory in the 400-meters, a victory-stand incident drew whistles and boos from some of the 80,000 spectators in Olympic Stadium.

After Matthews, a 24-year-old black from Brooklyn, N.Y. had won the 400 meters in 44.66 seconds, with Wayne Collett of Santa Monica, Calif., second, the two runners adopted a casual—and what was interpreted as a disrespectful—attitude during the playing of the National Anthem.

Matthews denied that the two runners were engaging in any form of protest.

At the end of the day's events, the Soviet Union — with two victories in track and field, one in equestrian and another in women's volleyball —still led the United States in gold medals, 31-26.

But the United States maintained its edge in total medals, 75-69. East Germany is third in both categories with 53 medals, 18 of them gold.

The U.S. list does not include the gold medal won in the 400-meter swimming relay by 16-year-old Rick DeMont of San Rafael, Calif., who left for home Thursday not knowing whether the medal was his to keep or not.

The Executive Board of the International Committee announced Wednesday the medal was being vacated because DeMont had used a drug containing ephedrine to ease an asthmatic condition. Later, the IOC, without retracting its original announcement, agreed to review the case Friday.

Milburn, a Southern University student from Baton Rouge, La., won the 110-meter hurdles in the world record—equalling time of 13.2 seconds, with Guy Drut of France second and Tom Hill, an Army lieutenant from Jonesboro, Ark., third.

The Soviet Union's two golds came in the men's hammer throw, won by balding Anatoly Bondarchuk, with an Olympic record heave of 247 feet, 8 inches and the women's shot put, captured by a 195-pound engineer, Nadezhda Chizhova, with an Olympic record of 69 feet.

East Germany grabbed the other two track and field golds Thursday Renate Stecher, a housewife, completed the sprint double—the first since Wilma Rudolph of the United States in 1960—in winning the women's 200 meters in 22.4 seconds. she equalled the world mark set by Formosa's Chi Cheng in 1970 in adding the 200 to her 100-meter crown.

Monika Zehrt of East Germany won the women's 400 meters, in 51.08 seconds, beating Rita Wilden of West Germany and Kathy Hammond of Carmichael, Calif., who won the bronze in :51.64

The coffins of 10 of the slain Israelis were flown home on an Israeli airliner Thursday, while the 11th, bearing the body of weightlifter David Berger, was sent by U.S. Army aircraft to the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Berger, in Shaker Heights, Ohio. Berger had moved to Israel and taken dual citizenship.

There remained an edginess within the Olympic Village, with threats against the East German team and police checking on bomb scares at three sites. And, to add to the tension, seven Irish Republican Army cyclists crashed the Olympic bicycle road race and one was involved in a pileup. No one was hurt.

The two-day decathalon began and Joachim Kirst of East Germany was the leader after the first five events. The two American contenders—Jeff Bennett and Jeff Bannister--were seventh and 10th in an event which the United States has won seven of eight times since 1932.

In qualifying trials, Ludmila Bragina of the Soviet Union set the world record in the women's 1,500-meter with 4:05.1 and 10 runners broke the 16-year-old Olympic record of Russia's Vladimir Kuts in the 5,000-meter tests. The best time was 13:31.8, by Emile Puttemans of Belgium. Steve Prefontaine, America's long distance threat from Eugene Ore., ran 13:32.6. Kuts' record was 13:39.6.

Ray Seales of Tacoma, Wash., gained the semifinals in the light welterweight division of the boxing tournament, assuring the United States of at least another bronze medal. He outpointed Andre Molina of Cuba. Marvin Johnson, a middleweight from Indianapolis, also reached the semifinals outpointing Alejandro Montoya of Cuba.

In Greco-Roman Wrestling, in which America never has done well, Jay Robinson of Spring Valley, Calif., won his second round match in the 180.5 pound division and Wayne Baughman of Universal City, Tex., advanced in the 198-pound class although he lost a second-round decision.

Chris Taylor, the 400-pound freestyle wrestling bronze medalist from Dowagiac, Mich., was eliminated as were Gary Neist of Albert Lea, Minn., a 163-pounder, and Buck Deadrich of Oakland, Calif., a 220-pounder.

John Williams, an Army private from Cranesville, Pa., the world champion, took the lead in men's archery after the 9'and 70-meter events of a four-event program. The Russians edged West Germany's defending champions in the questrian team dressage final. Hennie Kuiper of the Netherlands won the open road bicycling race.

Yachting was postponed until Friday because of fog and lack of wind.

In canoeing, Mrs. Marcia Jones of Buchanan, Mich., won a repechage heat and qualified for the women's Kayak singles. John Brosius and Alan Whitney of Washington, D.C., advanced in the men's kayak pairs, while Andy Weigand and Roland Muhlen also moved forward in the men's Canadian pairs. The American Kayak four team and Robert Mitchell of Catherine, Ala., failed to qualify.

Boston Nabs First Place In AL East

. . . HOME RUN BARRAGE SIDELINES NEW YORK YANKEES

By The Associated Press

The Boston Red Sox took over first place for the first time this season in the tight American League East baseball race, beating the New York Yankees 10-4 on a home run barrage Thursday night.

Tommy Harper and Rico Petrocelli hit three-run homers and pitcher Sonny Siebert added a solo blast as the Red Sox beat the Yankees, one of four contending teams in the hot pennant chase.

The Detroit Tigers, who were first on Wednesday, dropped to second place, a half-game behind, when beaten 9-0 by the Baltimore Orioles. The Orioles' victory, fashioned on Mike Cuellar's four-hitter, moved the Orioles 1½ games behind the leaders while the Yankees fell to fourth, two games behind.

The Chicago White Sox defeated the Oakland A's 6-0 to make the American League West race at little more interesting. The White Sox, led by Wilbur Wood's five-hitter and four RBI by Dick Allen, pulled within three games of the front-running As. It was Wood's 24th victory, tops in the majors.

In Wednesday's other American League action, the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Clevealnd Indians 7-1 with two home runs by George Scott; Monty Montgomery pitched a four-hitter as the Kansas City Royals beat the California Angels 6-0, and the Minnesota Twins trimmed the Texas Rangers 4-0 on a combined four-hitter by Jim Perry, Dave LaRoche and Wayne Granger.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs cut Pittsburgh's lead in the East to 12½ games with a 4-2 victory over the Pirates behind Burt Hooton.

Steve Carlton notched his 23rd victory, pitching the Philadelphia Phillies to a 2-1 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals; Bob Watson and Roger Metzger hit home runs in the 13th inning to lead the Houston Astros to a 5-1 triumph over the San Francisco Giants and Balor Moore fired a five-hitter to pace the Montreal Expos to a 4-0 decision over the New York Mets.

Leron Lee hit a home run and rookie Mike Caldwell pitched a seven-hitter as the Sane Diego Padres trimm d the Cincinnati Reds 2-0 in the first game of a doubleheader

In a late West coast game Earl Williams hit his 24th home run of the season with a man aboard in the fourth inning and rookie Jimmy Freeman held the Dodgers to five hits before losing his control in the ninth inning as the Atlanta Braves beat Los Angeles, 4-2.

And Nate Colbert hit a bases-loaded homer as San Diego took the second game from Cincinnati, 5-1.

Reed Acquitted

New York (AP) — Basketball star Willis Reed was acquitted Thursday of threatening an off-duty policeman during an argument over an alleged traffic violation.

—LINCOLN COACHES DEBUT—

Lincoln High-Thunderbolt Clash Highlights Prep Tilts

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Friday night should be billed as first-year coaches night by Lincoln prep football teams.

In all three season-opening games in which Capital City teams are involved, a new head coach will make his debut.

Primary attention will focus on the Lincoln High-Pius X intra-city clash at Seacrest Field where Links' coach Jerry Ball debuts. He's spent the last six seasons as an Omaha Tech assistant.

Meanwhile, East and Southeast, the city's power teams the last two years, will oppose new head coaches in opening-night road assignments Friday.

The defending state champion Spartans play a Trans-Nebraska Conference game at Grand Island, coached by Kenny Fischer, former Hiram Scott and Midland College assistant.

Defending city champion Southeast opens its Trans-Nebraska title defense at North Platte under the new direction of former Beatrice coach Bob Starr.

Saturday night pits Lincoln Northeast and Fremont in a non-conference game at Seacrest Field.

Jerry Ball

Starr, a former Lincoln Northeast (1951) and Nebraska Wesleyan halfback (1958), sees the Southeast game as a grudge match even though it's his first year at North Platte.

It was his Beatrice team which knocked Southeast out of likely back-to-back state championships with a final game upset of the Knights last year.

"I'm afraid they're going to remember that," says Starr. "I think this game is more important to me than I've been able to get across to my players.

"They've never done well against Lincoln teams," he pointed out. "My mind was always on playing Lincoln teams. I honestly haven't thought about the West Big 10. And that's all our players like to think about. To them, the Trans-Nebraska Conference is sort of a foreign word."

Fischer who has installed the wishbone-T offense at Grand Island, could think of easier opening games than powerful East.

"I've never seen East play," he admits, "but I've heard enough about the way they can move a football. We've got to keep them from throwing it to win."

Quarterbacking may play a key role in the Lincoln High-Pius X showdown. The Links have the edge in Bob Folsom.

If the game follows the usual LHS-Pius X script, however, defense will dominate. The Links boast 6-5, 240-pound monster back Mike Fultz and standout defensive end Jerry Meyers.

Ballfield Lights For Scottsbluff

By United Press International

Gov. J. J. Exon's office reported Thursday approval has been given for a grant to Scottsbluff for a ballfield lighting project.

The grant includes $11,000 in federal funds made available by the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

The federal grant will be matched by $11,000 from the City of Scottsbluff.

Southeast Tips Spartans, 3-2

The Lincoln Southeast netters squeezed past the Lincoln East High Spartans, 3-2, in a tennis dual Thursday night that saw all but one match go past two sets.

The Knights' John Duncan defeated John Crancer 6-2, 6-2, in the only match that ended in two sets.

Ashe Upsets Smith In U.S. Open Meet

Forest Hills, N.Y. (AP) — Arthur Ashe, whippet-lean and victory hungry, scored an amazing, three-set and current Wimbledon king Stan Smith Thursday to advance to the semifinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Ashe, the No. 6 seed from Miami, used a piercing backhand to forge a 7-6, 6-4, 7-5 decision over the bewildered, 6-foot-4 Smith, the No. 1 seed here, in the quarter-finals.

Ashe, who won this title in 1968 while he was still an amateur, next goes against stumpy, stubborn Cliff Richey, the No. 12 seed from Sarasota, Fla., who advanced along with Ilie Nastase, a hawk-faced Romanian, and longshot Tom Gorman of Seattle.

Nastase ended the upset string of Australian veteran Fred Stolle with a 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 frolic over the 33-year-old red-haired veteran.

Gorman just got by unseeded Roscoe Tanner, a Stanford student from Kookout Mountain, Tenn. 7-6, 5-7, 7-6, 5-7, 6-4 — just five games less than the maximum 65.

The 5-foot-7 Richey, a combative, competitive native of Texas, looked bad in a 3-6 opening set loss to the two-handed swipes of South African Bob Hewitt, but rallied to sweep the next three sets 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.

Twelve Californians On NU Travel List

Twelve Californians will return to their home state as members of the Nebraska football team when the Huskers begin their drive for a third consecutive national championship.

Coach Bob Devaney's 54-man roster for the UCLA opener Saturday beginning at 10:05 p.m. (Lincoln time) at the Los Angeles Coliseum lists 29 offensive players, 24 defensive performers and one kicker.

The Californians include I-back Gary Dixon from Oxnard, middle gurad John Bell from Anaheim, offensive tackle Mark Doak from Whittier, slotback Glen Garson from Fullerton, safety Mark Heydorff from LaCrescenta, tight end Larry Mushinskie from Temple City, defensive tackle Mike Osborne from Long Beach and split end Bob Ravelle from Sierra Madre.

Others include linebacker Bill Sloey from Hawthorne, safety Bob Thornton from Lomita, cornerback Zaven Yaralian from Inglewood, and center Dennis Zanrosso from Arleta.

All three quarterback candidates, David Humm, Steve Runty and Terry Luck will make the trip.

The complete traveling roster:

Weaver Records 65, Tops Southern Open

. . . VET PLAYS WITH CLOGGED EAR

Columbus, Ga. (AP) — DeWitt Weaver, playing despite a clogged left ear, fired a five-under-par 65 Thursday and charged into the first-round lead in the $100,000 Southern Open Golf Tournament.

"I've had this stopped-up ear for about three days and I saw a doctor here yesterday. He said he couldn't understand how I'm playing golf," Weaver said after taking a one-shot lead over colorful Chi Chi Rodriguez.

"It doesn't bother me that much," Weaver said. "It just sounds like I'm playing on TV every shot I hit." He said he planned to have the ear drained Friday night.

Weaver kept the ball out of the treacherous rough, hugging the fairways of the 6,766-yard, par-70 Green Island Country Club course as he fashioned a 33-32-75 under a hot Georgia sun.

Rodriguez, winner of the Byron Nelson Classic earlier this year, had a 35-31-66 and stood alone in second place.

"I played my career round today." Rodriguez said. "I could have broken 60 if I would have putted like Arnie Palmer in his prime."

The day's early leaders, George Johnson and Bob Dickson, were deadlocked in third place with three-under 67s. Larry Ziegler and Jim Colbert followed at 68.

Missing from the field were many of the game's glamour players, including Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Gary Player and Gay Brewer—all competing in the World Series of Golf at Akron, where Palmer is serving as a TV commentator.

Weaver put together three birdies on the front side with putts of two feet at No. 3, 15 feet at No. 5 and 10-feet at No. 7. He made his only bogey when he three-putted from 25 feet at No. 9, but then birdied the next three holes on putts ranging from three to 12 feet.

Seven players were at 69—Roy Pace, Larry Gilbert, Chuck Courtney, Bob Barbarossa, Martin Roesink, Rick Massengale and Chris Blocker.

Cyclones' Blair Suffers Injuries

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State defensive captain Matt Blair was injured in the Cyclones' game-type scrimmage Thursday and may be lost for an indefinite period, a team spokesman said.

Blair was hospitalized with a possible torn ligament suffered while intercepting a pass in the third quarter of the game. He was to be re-examined by a physician Friday.

The first team defeated the reserves and freshmen 53-6 before coach Johnny Majors took the No. 1 squad off the field with 1:41 remaining in the third quarter.

Two Cyclones Quit Squad

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State football coach Johnny Majors confirmed Thursday that reserve quarterback Kevin Sigler and Joe Adamo have quit the squad.

Sigler, a sophomore who had earned all-state honors at Council Bluffs Abraham Lincoln, apparently planned a transfer to an Ivy League school, Majors said.

Adaom, of Fairport, N.Y., had transferred to Iowa State from Nassau N.Y. Community College. He planned to enroll at Northeast Louisiana, Majors said.

"Neither have progressed to the point where they figured prominanetly in our plans for this season," Majors said.

Mustangs Relax After Four Wins

Omaha (UPI) —The Omaha Mustangs, undefeated in their first four games this season, take this weekend off.

The game at Indianapolis, scheduled for Saturday, has been rescheduled for Oct. 28 at the request of the Indianapolis team.

The Mustangs return to play Sept. 16 in Des Moines against the Vikings. The Vikings lost to the Omaha club last week, 62-7.

Two Jayhawks Out

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Kansas football coach Don Fambrough said Thursday sophomore tight end Gregg Hosack and junior defensive back James Bowman have knee injuries and will play in the season opener here Saturday against Washington State.

Stander's Future Uncertain

. . . NOLAND: 'NOT READY TO FIGHT YET'

Des Moines, Iowa (AP) — Ron Stander's fight career is at a standstill — if you want to believe his manager.

Stander, 27, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, lost a sixth-round technical knockout to world heavyweight champion Joe Frazier in Omaha, Neb., May 25 and hasn't fought since.

"I would like to fight within the month" said Stander here Wednesday night after watching Art Hernandez of Des Moines grab the mythical North American middleweight title.

"I'm anxious to get back in there — if the money is right" continued Stander who scales about 230 now compared to the 218 at which he fought Frazier.

"He's not ready to go back yet" shot Dick Noland, Stander's manager, when quizzed about a fight for the "Bluffs' Butcher."

"You have got to go to the gym once in awhile and work," blurted Noland in referring to Stander's lack of training.

"I had scheduled a bout for him Sept. 25 in Milwaukee with Larry Bellifus, but I canceled it today," said Noland. "Ron's just not in shape."

Stander, 23-2-1, admits he is having trouble getting motivated about training for a return to the ring.

"If I get something worthwhile then I could probably train seriously," Stander said. "I really haven't been doing much work lately."

Stander said he had an offer to fight unbeaten heavyweight challenger George Foreman in Bostin in October, but turned down the bout because of the money.

"They offered us only $20,000 and that's not enough," Stander said. "But I would like to fight again — and soon. I think I learned a lot against Frazier and I would like to use that."

Stander said he is not hurting financially, although most of the money he earned from the title fight is gone.

"Taxes ate up about $7,800 and I had a lot of bills," he said. "When it was all cut up I went home with about $13,000 to $14,000."

Stander said except for the lack of training he is ready to return to a career in boxing. The only serious after effect of the title fight — some cartilage in the nose — has been removed.

"I had an operation about a month after the fight," Stander said. "It's funny, it wasn't an injury I received from Frazier but one I got sparring before the bout."

When will Stander make his return?

"I think that depends entirely on him," Noland said. "When he's ready, I'll find him a bout, but not until then."

Kearney Gets More Coverage

Kearney (UPI) — Kearney State College has begun giving more emphasis toward promoting the Antelope football team.

Four radio stations will follow the Antelopes through their nine game schedule. Beginning Saturday, three Kearney stations and one at Lexington will do play-by-play broadcasts of the Kearney games.

The stations are KRVN at Lexington and KGFW, KRNY-fm and campus radio KOVF-fm at Kearney.

Broadcasts will be taped for later airing when they interfere with University of Nebraska contests.

In another area, new head coach Claire Boroff each Tuesday noon will meet with fans at the Holiday Inn to discuss game films. His staff will review the previous week's game and preview the upcoming game.

The meetings will be sponsored by the Kearney Optimist Club.

Hunting Maps Now Available

Minneapolis (UPI) — The Federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife announced Thursday the new 1972 waterfowl production area maps are ready for distribution in Nebraska.

The hunting maps identify the locations of 38 wetland areas that have been purchased with federal duck stamp funds.

All of the wetland areas are located South of the Platte River in the south-central part of the state. They will be open to public hunting during the fall season.

Copies of the maps may be obtained from National Wildlife Refuges, wetland management offices and other bureau installations in Nebraska.

Fischer Cried After Losing Lincoln Game

By Associated Press

Aleksander, Liepnieks remembers a time when Bobby Fischer cried over losing a chess game.

Fischer was 12 at the time.

It happened when Fischer, now 29, was playing in a Lincoln YMCA chess tournament and staying at the Liepnieks home. Fischer lost a game, locked himself crying in his room and wouldn't come to dinner until Liepnieks threatened to beat down the door, Liepnieks recalls.

Fischer tied with 27 other players for 11th place in that tourney, but at 13 became U.S. junior champion. His career reached its zenith last week in Iceland when he won the world title from Boris Spassky.

Liepnieks returned this week from Iceland where he attended the games. He is a director of the Nebraska region of the U.S. Chess Federation, 15 times Lincoln champion and three times a Nebraska state champion.

Weather Hinders Nebraska Fishing

. . . ANGLERS STILL SCORE

Cloudy and windy weather the past few days has put the brakes on much of the fishing in eastern Nebraska, but anglers in the western part of the state continue to score.

According to reports of Game and Parks Commission conservation officers in the field, outdoor activity across the state includes:

SAND HILLS

Sherman Reservoir (Loup City) — good success on crappie and small white bass, both hitting minnows;

Merritt Reservoir (Valentine) — walleye averaging three pounds on trolled artificials and bluegill hitting worms, both in the Boardman Bay area.

PANHANDLE

Smith Lake (Sheridan County) — near limits of largemouth bass averaging three pounds hitting artificials in the evening; bullheads close to two pounds taking worms;

Lake McConaughy — Rainbow trout averaging 3½ pounds hitting trolled artificials from the Lakeview area east; white bass at the dam on jigs and trolled artificials;

Lake Ogallala — small white bass and perch on worms and artificials;

Soldier Creek and Niobrara River — brown trout to 12 inches on grasshoppers;

White River — rainbows and browns to 12 inches on grasshoppers.

SOUTHWEST

Johnson Lake (Lexington) — white bass to one pound taking shad and minnows;

Diversions (Lexington area) — catfish to four pounds hitting shad;

Gallagher Canyon Reservoir (Cozad) — catfish to six pounds going for jug-fished minnows;

Red Willow Reservoir (McCook) — a few largemouth bass on deep-fished jigs and spinners; some catfish to two pounds taking jug-fished salamanders;

Medicine Creek Reservoir (Cambridge) — catfish to two pounds hitting shad and minnows;

Sutherland Reservoir — catfish to four pounds on frogs; bullheads.

SOUTHEAST

Pawnee Lake (Emerald) — fair success on catfish to four pounds; occasional bluegill and bass;

Branched Oak Lake (Malcolm)— some bluegill and bass;

Two Rivers State Reecreation Area (Valley) — most fishermen taking limits of five trout at put-and-take lake;

Sandpits (Merrick County) — occasional bass;

Hord State Recreation Area — bass two to four pounds going for night crawlers and plastic worms.

NORTHEAST

Gavins Point Dam Tailwaters (Crofton) — two-pound catfish taking chicken liver drift-fished below the powerhouse; a few small drum; walleye taking artificials trolled at night; a few small white bass going for artificials.

Your lawn needs food right now even more than it did last spring.

Scotts Turf Builder
Scotts
Turf Builder
LAWN FERTILIZER 23-7-7
America's favorite fertilizer for developing thick green lawns

Most people think because their lawn looks green in the fall it doesn't have to be fed.
Nothing could be further from the truth.
In the fall your lawn is going through its most important growth cycle.
It's growing down.
It's trying to develop the vital new root structure it needs for the following year. And at the same time send out thousands of new grass shoots to thicken itself.
Without food during this critical growing period your lawn cannot possibly give you more than token development.
And unfortunately, the food you gave it last spring has been used up. So it needs more. Right now. Between the end of August and late September.
Turf Builder not only contains all the essential nutrients your lawn needs but it also gives you more rich nitrogen than the so-called "winter fertilizers." So your lawn stays green longer this fall and will green up earlier next spring.
What's more, Turf Builder releases those nutrients slowly so your lawn can put them to good use. (Otherwise you'd just get a quick surge of grass growth and more mowing.)
And Turf Builder is safe. Used as directed it's impossible to "burn" your lawn with it.
The reasons more people used Turf Builder last fall than any other fertilizer.
Scotts. The lawn people.
SPECIAL SPREADER OFFER: 1/2 PRICE.
Just buy $9.95 worth of Scotts lawn food, grass seed or weed control and your authorized Scotts retailer will sell you a Scotts spreader for only $9.97—one half the regular price of $19.95.

Balance Of Terror Unchanged

©The New York Times

London — The International Institute for Strategic Studies says in a report to be published Friday that the strategic arms limitation treaty signed in May leaves the Soviet Union with more missile launchers and heavier bombs than the United States but gives America a lead in weapon flexibility and in the ability to hit more targets.

The balance of terror, however, remains unchanged, the institute says. That is, both countries will retain nuclear arsenals and delivery systems more than adequate to strike back with devastating effect even if the other attacks first.

The institute is the authoritative, private, London-based organization that makes annual assessments of the world's armaments, military systems and alliances. Its new report, entitled "The Military Balance 1972-73," notes the following major shifts in capability since last year:

—The expulsion of Soviet advisers and military aides by Egypt not only weakened Egypt vis-a-vis Israel but also changed the maritime balance in the Mediterranean between the forces of the Soviet Union and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The U.S.S.R. can still cover the Mediterranean from its Black Sea bases, the institute said, but not as well as when it could use bases in Egypt.

—China is continuing her nuclear development program, but perhaps more important is her growing ability to produce nonnuclear bombers, interceptor planes, fighter aircraft, submarines and destroyers, indicating a shift of her armed forces from a pre-industrial to an industrial base.

Speaking of developments in 1972, the institute said:

"The year could be viewed as a turning point because of the SALT agreements, which codify strategic parity and embody the special relations between the superpowers for the first time in permanent bilateral commissions, and because of the Soviet Union's enforced withdrawal from Egypt, which underlines the limits placed by nationalism on foreign involvements."

The institute report said that it was difficult to assess how the SALT agreements signed during President Nixon's May visit to Moscow affected the relative position of the two powers.

"Detailed analysis of the nuclear forces permitted under the agreements shows a variety of quite different balances that might be struck, some favoring one side, some the other," it said.

"The very number of these, taking into account missile launchers, bombers, warheads, targets, megatonnage and operational capacity, demonstrates the limited validity of any single criterion."

The institute concludes, however, that "neither power can consider itself to have any significant advantage over the other in terms of freedom to engage in nuclear war without incurring devastation."

Hutchinson, husband and wife, owners of a tract of land being all of Lot 63 of Irregular Tracts located in the Northwest Quarter of Section 4, Township 9 North, Range 7 East of the Sixth Principal Meridian, Lancaster County, Nebraska, more particularly described as: Beginning at the northeast corner of said Lot 63 of Irregular Tracts; thence southerly along the east line of said Lot 63 of Irregular Tracts, a distance of 257.23 feet to the southeast corner of said Lot 63 of Irregular Tracts; thence westerly along the south line of said Lot 63 of Irregular Tracts a distance of 417.7 feet to the southwest corner of said Lot 63 of Irregular Tracts; thence north along the west line of said Lot 63 of Irregular Tracts a distance of 257.45 feet to the northwest corner of said Lot 63 of Irregular Tracts; thence east along the north line of said Lot 63 of Irregular Tracts a distance of 417.7 feet to the point of beginning, have filed said plat in the office of the Planning Department of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, with a request for approval and acceptance thereof, in the manner and form as by ordinance required; and

WHEREAS, it is for the convenience of the inhabitants of said City of Lincoln, Nebraska, and for the public that said plat be approved and accepted as filed.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska:

Section 1. That the plat of HUTCHINSON'S VIEW, as an addition within the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, filed in the office of the Planning Department of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, by David E. Hutchinson and Judith L. Hutchinson, husband and wife, as owners, be and it hereby is approved, and the said owners be and they hereby are given the right to plat said Hutchinson's View as an addition within the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, in accordance therewith. Such acceptance and approval is subject to the following conditions:

That the owners above set forth shall enter into a written agreement with the City of Lincoln agreeing that the said owners, their successors and assigns, shall allow the extension of private water and sanitary sewer lines, as well as other utilities, to cross Lot 2 within the 15 foot public easement to service Lot 1 of said plat.

Section 2. Immediately upon the taking effect of this ordinance, the owners shall file a certified copy of this ordinance, together with the written agreement required herein in the office of the Register of Deeds of Lancaster County, Nebraska.

Section 3. That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication according to law.

Section 27. That the plat of Heritage Heights First Addition, as an addition within the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, filed in the office of the Planning Department of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, by The Commonwealth Company, a corporation, as owner, be and it hereby is given the right to plat said Heritage Heights First Addition, as an addition within the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, in accordance therewith. Such acceptance and approval are conditioned upon the following conditions:

First: That the owner above set forth shall at its own cost and expense pay for all labor, material, engineering and inspections costs in connection with the construction of sidewalks in the sidewalk space along both sides of all streets within this plat and along the south side of LaSalle Street adjacent to this plat. The construction of said sidewalks shall be completed not later than September 1, 1976.

Second: That the owner above set forth shall at its own cost and expense pay for all labor, material, engineering and inspection costs in connection with the construction of an ornamental street lighting system along all public streets within this plat and along the south side of LaSalle Street adjacent to this plat, all of which shall be equivalent to standards and specifications for residential street lighting for the City of Lincoln. As an alternative, the above named owner may petition the City for the creation of an ornamental street lighting district to accomplish the construction of said ornamental street lighting system. The construction of said ornamental street lighting system shall be completed not later than September 1, 1974.

Third: That the owner above set forth shall at its own cost and expense pay for all labor, material, engineering and inspection costs in connection with the construction of a system of storm sewerage and drainage to serve said plat. Said system of storm sewerage and drainage shall be constructed as follows:

(a) In Elkcrest Drive from the westerly limits of the plat to 58th Street.

(b) In 58th Street from Elkcrest Drive to LaSalle Street.

(c) In Deerwood Drive from the northerly limits of the plat to the southerly limits of the plat.

(d) In Dogwood Drive from Deerwood Drive to Skylark Lane.

(e) In Skylark Lane from Dogwood Drive to the southerly limits of the plat.

(f) In Dogwood Drive from Skylark Lane to Lonewood Street.

The aforesaid system of storm sewerage and drainage shall be designed and constructed in conformance with "Storm Sewer Design Criteria" published by the Department of Public Works for the City of Lincoln in January, 1970, and on file in the office of the City Engineer. Construction of said system of storm sewerage and drainage shall be completed not later than September 1, 1974.

Fourth: That prior to the effective date of this ordinance, the above named owner shall enter into a written agreement with the City of Lincoln which shall provide as follows:

(a) That no building permits be issued for Outlots A, B and C and that said Outlots are platted to allow for the exchange of land between the said owner and abutting property owners.

(b) That Outlots A, B and C shall be replatted at a future date into single family residential lots.

Section 28. That the owner above set forth shall, prior to final passage of this ordinance, execute and deliver to the City of Lincoln:

(a) a bond in the sum of $29,400.00 conditioned upon the strict compliance by the above named owner with the conditions contained in paragraph designated "First" of the next preceding section of this ordinance;

(b) a bond in the sum of $18,400.00 conditioned upon the strict compliance by the above named owner with the conditions contained in paragraph designated "Second" of the next preceding section of this ordinance;

(c) a bond in the sum of $52,400.00 conditioned upon the strict compliance by the above named owner with the conditions contained in paragraph designated "Third" of the next preceding section of this ordinance;

(d) the bonds required above shall be subject to the approval of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, and shall be further conditioned that in the event the above named owner fails to comply with the conditions herein set forth within the time specified in this ordinance, the City Council shall proceed to fulfill said conditions, the cost thereof to be paid by the surety. Such work shall be performed in the manner set forth in Title 26 of the Lincoln Municipal Code, known as the Land Subdivision Ordinance, as now existing or as may hereafter be amended.

Section 29. Immediately upon the taking effect of this ordinance, the owner shall file a certified copy of this ordinance, together with the written agreement requuired herein in the office of the Register of Deeds of Lancaster County, Nebraska.

Section 30. That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication according to law.

The best lawns of all are fed both Spring and Fall!

The biggest single cause of disappointing lawns is underfeeding. For your lawn's sake, replenish its food supply now even if you fed last spring. It will encourage fall's natural processes of developing new blades, intensifying color and thickening the weave.

TURF BUILDER, Scotts lawn food, is ideal for fall feeding. Its high nitrogen content makes your lawn grow thicker, greener and sturdier this fall. And thanks to its prolonged release, TURF BUILDER helps your grass winter better and get off to a faster start next spring too.

Stock Mart Decline Continues

New York (AP) — Under the cloud of higher interest rates and uncertainty in the Middle East, the stock market turned in its third straight session of post-Labor Day losses Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed at 962.45. Declines outnumbered advances 846 to 518 on the Big Board, with 1,746 total issues traded. Volume was a light 11.09 million shares.

Higher interest rates on Treasury bills and commercial paper, added to recent hikes in the prime rates of major banks, had investors worried, most analysts agreed.

In addition, as Charles Lewis of Treves & Co. put it, "People are concerned about a possible blowup in the Middle East. War and higher money rates are the two chief ways of dampening the market — and we've got indications of both."

Regarding the interest rate situation, William Nelson of Moody's Investors Service said: "I think these rises are natural consequences of demand for money in an expanding economy. But people still get shudders when they think of this," referring to the tight-money crunch of 1969 and 1970.

Most-active issue on the Big Board was Louisiana Land & Exploration, continuing a slide that included a 4⅝-point drop Wednesday. It fell another ⅜ to 43¼. Company officials said Wednesday they could not explain the movement.

Oil issues were mixed, in a partial recovery from Wednesday's downward trend, which apparently had been spurred by anxiety about the Middle East after the terrorist slaying of Israeli athletes at Munich.

Gulf, the Big Board's second-most-active stock, was unchanged at 247. Continental Oil gained ⅜ to 34⅛, and Royal Dutch Shell tacked on ⅛ to 38⅛. But Texaco was off ⅜ to 34⅛, Standard of Indiana lost ¼ to 75, and Standard of New Jersey dipped ¼ to 81.

Curtiss-Wright continued to suffer an unwinding of the gains it made last week, when General Motors announced plans for use of the Wankel rotary engine, to which Curtiss-Wright owns North American rights.

On the Amex, the five-most active issues were: Amerada Hess warrants, down ⅝ to 13; Ames Department Stores, off ¼ to 15⅛; Husky Oil, unchanged at 18½; Champion Home builders, up to 16⅛; and Kenton, down ½ to 4⅝.

The price-change index of the American Exchange was down .05 to 26.49. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,400 common stocks fell .19 to close at 60.62.

Losses Pared In Soybeans, Corn, Wheat

Chicago (AP) — Late buying activity accompanied by short-covering pared early losses in soybeans, corn and wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday.

Wheat closed lower by around 1 cent, but soybeanh and corn were mixed. Oats lost nearly 1 cent.

At the close, wheat was ⅝ to 1⅛ cents a bushel lower, September 1.90¾; corn was ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, September 1.34¾; oats were 3 to lower, September 79⅝; and soybeans were unchanged to 1 cent lower.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Capitalist System's Validity Regarded As Basic Issue

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Merryle Rukeyser

Facts Stressed

Amidst the public relations exaggerations and distortions of a major political campaign, it is important for investors, family heads, business executives and in fact all of us to separate fact from fiction.

Contemporary living is complex, and salvation can't be achieved simply by "throwing the rascals out" or "letting us supermen take over."

A basic issue is whether competitive capitalism deserves to survive because of service in terms of "the greatest good to the greatest number." Of course, no major candidate openly takes the position to scrap the system. Faulty though the competitive system is, it has set new global records in diffusing better living among most of the people.

It is deemed politically more palatable to achieve change by indirection. Huey Long of Louisiana was once asked whether we'd ever have Fascism in this country, and he replied: "Yes, but it will probably be called anti-Fascism." In realistic terms, the contest is to what extent the free market should be further circumscribed by increasing government control in the direction of a "mixed economy"

Hides Truth

Bleeding hearts muddy the intellectual waters by asserting that they give human rights a higher priority than property rights. At first blush, this affirmation sounds axiomatic, but it hides the fundamental truth that the right to accumulate reserves against life's contingencies, including old age, and provision for dependents, is a basic human right. Thus the remark tends to create a false division, and to create the wrong impression that property is owned only by the rich. But that assumption is at variance with the facts of life in the U.S.A.

In 1972 upwards of 32 million individuals own corporate stocks, and tens of millions more own their own homes, have savings accounts and bonds, and indirect holdings in corporations through funds and trusts.

In trying in his appearance before the New York Society of Security Analysts to modify his more extreme views as expressed during the primary campaigns and mitigate his criticism of the Establishment, Sen. George McGovern created symbols of reasonableness, such as praise of the conservative Representative Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and a promise that he would not increase the tax burden on wages and salaries. As to raising estate taxes after death, Sen. McGovern indicated that he would exempt from higher burdens bequests to spouses. In simpler days, the sense of financial trusteeship was embodied in the outmoded cliche about protecting "widows and orphans." .., McGovern in these days of Women's Lib broadened widows to include widowers, but he perhaps unintentially omitted putting orphan children in the same sanctuary.

Dividing People

In placing wages and salaries outside the pale of additional tax rates, the candidate perhaps unwittingly was again dividing the people. Even though some salaries have gone into extremely high figures — in some cases $500,000 or more — he promised the big earners peferential treatment over the small savers, including retired folks living on interest and dividends.

Many in sounding off, including some TV commentators, are unaare of the history of legislation, economic and social ideas and customs. Thus there is great emotional appeal in pointing out that the tax statutes treat inanimate objects, such as natural resources, more tenderly than human beings. The former get depletion allowances because petroleum and minerals are in limited supply. But the human worker ages, may grow outmoded, and ultimately may become unemployable, and should receive at least as sensitive tax treatment.

If a poll were taken, the uninformed would doubtless assume that this inhumane distinction was an example of the callousness of the party now in control of the White House, but the fact is that even under the Republicans in the 1920's the human worker was treated as generously in the tax statutes as oil wells and mines. The tax rule then was that those on wages, salaries or entrepreneurial rewards for personal serivices could deduct 25% from such earnings as a tax credit for earned income. The impact was to give persons the equivalent of the allowance to inanimate assets for depletion, depreciation and obsolescence.

But under the New Deal in the 1930s when the Treasury was reporting deficits, this 25% allowance was whittled away in a series of cuts. Then during World War II the deduction was eliminated.

Neither party has a monopoly on virtue or on tenderness, but history should be rewritten or ignored even during the heat of a campaign.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

G. I. Gets Grant For A Library

Washington (AP) — Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., said Thursday Grand Island, Neb., has been awarded a grant of $100,370 for construction of a new library.

The library project is expected to cost $1,089,370.

Martin said the grant is made by the Office of Education and the library construction program is administered in Nebraska by the Nebraska Library Commission.

He said the program operates on a matching basis with state and—or local funds. The Bureau of Libraries and Loaning Resources said That $989,000 in local matching funds is being provided for the project.

This includes a $350,000 estate, $24,000 from the sale of present property, $15,000 from the Grand Island Foundation and $600,000 in local funds.

The Office of Education said the grant is made from fiscal 1972 funds of which Nebraska received $130,370 for library construction.

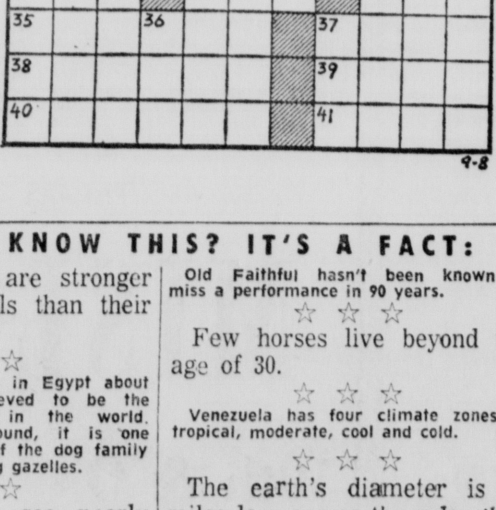
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How to Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A X Y D L B A A X R
to L O N G F E L L O W

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

Reg. U.S. Patent Office

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

Modern horses are stronger and faster animals than their ancient ancestors.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Saluki, originated in Egypt about 7000-6000 B.C., is believed to be the oldest purebred dog in the world. Resembling the greyhound, it is one of the fastest runners of the dog family and was used for hunting gazelles.

☆ ☆ ☆

A horse can see nearly straight back and straight ahead at the same time.

Old Faithful hasn't been known to miss a performance in 90 years.

☆ ☆ ☆

Few horses live beyond the age of 30.

☆ ☆ ☆

Venezuela has four climate zones — tropical, moderate, cool and cold.

The earth's diameter is 27 miles less across the poles than the 7,926 miles across the equator.
